RED IN THE FACE

Thanks for a "fantastic" centerfold: "Blondi: The Woman in Red" in your January '87 issue. She's the kind of woman who makes my heart—among other things—jump up and down and pound with joy.

—P. W.
Brea, California

January's HUSTLER Honey is fantastic! She is so damn sexy. She has nice, shapely legs, round, full breasts and an absolutely humongous bunghole. That's enough to drive any man wild!

I also thought the article "Sex Crimes" was very informative. J. R. Nelson did a superb job. After reading the different cases, I came to the conclusion that there are more sickos in this world than some people think there are. Some of the cases really got me steamed.

—J. M.
Attleboro, Massachusetts

WHAT A PAIR

You guys have outdone yourselves with the two-girl set titled "Jenny & Jill" in your January issue. Besides looking at the great set, I got a special thrill. When my girlfriend caught me jacking off to these two blondes, she stripped, climbed in bed with me and gave me a tremendous blowjob while I fantasized I was fucking the treehouse pair!

—S. R.
Nashville, Tennessee

LOVE PETRA'S SET

The layout of Boris Becker's girlfriend, Petra, was wild! I know it wasn't shot by one of your staff photographers, and some people probably bitched when it didn't show pink or bunghole. However, the layout was the biggest turn-on for me in a long time. One picture was really great because you could tell that she did not realize her voluptuous clit was exposed when they shot it. She also had such a cute, honest, innocent look about her that I was crazed with lust. —L. G.

Washington, D.C.

As president of the Boris Becker fan club, I think it is quite obvious that Petra was just a "groupie," and after she spent the night with Boris, Petra decided to cash in by letting everyone know about it. Our fan club motto is "Hop on the Becker Bandwagon," but that's not what we meant!

—R. P.
Oshkosh, Wisconsin

PANTYHOSER

My hearty congratulations on one of the sexiest pictures to run in your magazine in a long time—the shots of Petra with her panties on in the December '86 HUSTLER. The garter belt/stocking routine has been extinct for 20 years, and its fantasy level is wearing very thin. Almost every woman today wears pantyhose with panties underneath. I believe many men find this sort of attire very sexy. Get into the super-sexy reality of bras, panties, and pantyhose.

Blondi: The Woman in Red

—D. R.
St. Louis, Missouri

BLAME IT ON RIO

I know you try to get girls that have the guts to show everything, which eliminates the country-girl type: I mean girls with pretty faces. I would enjoy pictures of girls showing it all if the girls looked like the last persons who you'd expect to do it. A good example of what I don't like is December '86 covergirl Elle Rio, who looks like someone next to her just farted.

—Terry
Ft. Lauderdale, Florida

Talk about the perfect cover for a magazine—Elle Rio on your December issue is truly beautiful, and I also enjoyed the sizzling centerfold layout you did on her. She has got to be one of the greatest models who has ever appeared in HUSTLER.

—R. H.
Cheneyville, Louisiana

I just want to thank Clive McLean for "Elle Rio: Girl from Ipanema" in your December issue. She was beautiful on the cover, and the layout was super.

truly a superb young woman. She's a natural beauty, really the girl next door.

—W. B.

Portland, Maine

I am a very big fan of HUSTLER Magazine, and you are without a doubt the very best at showing us all there is to see of sexy ladies. Noelle, the Beaver Hunt winner, is the foxiest chick I have seen so far. She has that look that says, "Fuck me." I would love to see her in a two-girl layout.

Seattle, Washington

I've got to say that Luscious Lisa in the December Beaver Hunt is the embodiment of perfection in female form. What pointed rigid nipples—they would just about poke your eyes out. Her sumptuous pussy looked utterly edible. I'd love to be on her private beach with my Canon camera, and my other cannon sure is ripe for her.

—J. L.

STOKED ON STUART

The profile of Marty Stuart in the December '86 issue was probably the best music interview that I've had the pleasure of reading in recent years. Andrew Roblin is an extremely talented writer, class all the way. Stuart's comment about possibly being "lambasted" for his religious convictions was for naught. Your magazine doesn't mind religion—it supports it, unless it has anything to do with certain evangelists. If Marty stays away from these crooked evangelists and stays "hungry," he'll be fine. I'm not a country fan at all, but if this album has what it claims, I'll be a Marty Stuart fan.

TOYING WITH SEX

The article "Wonderful World of Sex Toys" by the wonderful Patti Petite was informative, entertaining, and arousing—all at the same time. I hope this is not the last of Patti we'll be seeing in HUSTLER. Do your readers a favor and make Patti a regular contributor.

GROSS BITS AND PIECES?

Referring to the item "Vom-Mitt" in your October '86 Bits and Pieces section, I wonder if you know just how seriously eating disorders can ruin people's lives. There is nothing fashionable about being a bulimic. The nation is trying to figure out the reason and straighten it out, not exploit and condone it. In the future be a little considerate for those of us who have fought to get where we are, and for those who are still fighting the tragedy of eating disorders.

—P. E.

Jupiter, Florida

FRIENDS OF WALKER

I am sending this with a lot of feeling for a man I didn't know all that well personally, but in another way. James Dean Walker and his partner would come into the restaurant where I worked in Lake Tahoe every morning for breakfast. I looked forward to seeing them because they were always nice, polite, respectable gentlemen. As far as I'm concerned, they can take the state of Arkansas and stick it! People in Lake Tahoe were upset by this, and I'm helping spread the word on his behalf. Let him go on with his life—enough is enough, and what's in the past should stay in the past. Thanks for a real important article.

REAL FREEDOM FIGHTERS

I am a street vendor who sells books and magazines. HUSTLER is my No. 1 best seller. Penthouse is second, and Playboy is a very poor third. How that asshole government committee could classify Playboy as porn is beyond me: It should be placed on the school library shelf next to Mary Poppins.

—H. R.

New York, New York

I fought as a United States Marine in Vietnam for freedom, and I'll continue to fight and write letters until my hand falls off. I have collected almost 100 signatures to send to the President and Congress. In addition to our threatened freedoms, here's something the Meese Commission and others always overlook: HUSTLER has always taken strong stands against brutality, hunger, child abuse and many other forms of social injustice. Keep up the good work, HUSTLER. I'm behind you all the way.

—G. C.

DREAM GIRLS

I've been a reader of HUSTLER for some time now, and I think it's the best. Your feature "I Dream of Jeanie" in the November '86 issue has shown me one of the hottest blondes I've ever seen. I would like to see a lot more of her or more photo-features with women like her.

Then, when I turned to Beaver Hunt and saw Kelly standing there, looking so sexy and holding an electric guitar, I almost blew my wad all over the front of my pants.

WRONG NUMBER

I was slipping into a typical housewife pattern of fantasy due to my husband's reenlistment in the Army. He didn't want me to take a job and, as we have no children, I was bored shitless. So I read and watched a lot of TV. The stuff I read about and the shows I watched on the tube got me so damn horny, I actually considered masturbating.

By the time my neighbor's son Scott knocked on the door, I was in sort of a daze; so that explains my reason for answering dressed in skimpy crimson underwear and a tank top. It was August and hot—and so was I. When I opened the door and saw Scott, I found myself staring at his bulge.

"Can I help you?" I asked.

"Yeah, uh, well—mom sent me over to find out if you were planning to have dinner with us tonight. She said your husband, Steve—"

"My husband's name is Jerome," I interrupted. "You want Denise. She's on the other side of your house."

"Shit. I mean, I'm sorry. Mom said to go next door, and I guess I went right instead of left."

"Well, since you're here by mistake, would you like to come in for a beer? My husband is gone for a few weeks, and it gets lonely sitting around by myself."

"Yeah, sure, why not? I'll try the other house later."

He followed me into the house, and I went straight to the kitchen to get him a beer. "Let's sit in the living room," I suggested.

"Nice place you have here," he commented. "I didn't catch your name," he said, and sat down.

"Rita. And yours?" I sat beside him, my thigh almost touching his.

"Scott." He smiled and placed his hand on my naked thigh. I felt a tingle in my pussy and closed my eyes. When I opened them, Scott was running his fingers beneath the elastic of my bikini underwear. He was still smiling as I watched him unzip his jeans and pull out a purple flesh tube so big and beautiful that it made me gasp in anticipation.

He pulled me roughly to meet his insistent lips and pushed a finger deep into my cunt. I could feel my nipples harden in response. My hand instinctively reached for his prick. I broke from our kiss to bend down and take that throbbing love shaft into my mouth.

"That feels fantastic, Rita," he said. His brawny fingers slid in and out of my cunt rapidly. I felt the first flush of an intense orgasm washing through my love-starved being. I stopped sucking his cock long enough for the waves of pleasure to shake me. I rode with the flow, and bit lightly on the head of his dick. He moaned and pulled me away.

"Mount me, bitch," he said. I felt his heat and straddled his well-muscled body right there on the couch. His eyes locked onto mine as I began rocking back and forth on his raging manstaff.

"Faster, baby," he moaned.

I placed his right hand on my mound, and he pressed a finger on my clit, sending me into instant orgasm.

"Come in my pussy, Scott. Come inside me. Hard. Do it." I leaned back, thrusting my hips forward to meet his every entry.

"Do it good, baby," I cried.

I felt another orgasm coming on. We both screamed, and it felt as if we'd both just fucking explode.

"Shit, that was good," said Scott when it was over. We were both soaked to the skin and breathing hard. He grinned at me, and I grinned back. I felt good that we'd pleased each other.

"Did you get off okay?" he asked.

"Oh, yeah," I said. "But shouldn't you be asking the neighbors about dinner?"

I don't know if Scott's mother missed him, but I was sure thankful for the love he gave me.

SORORITY SUCK

I was a nerd in college—and I guess I still am—but all that time I spent in front of my computer instead of partying really paid off, because now I design software and bring home about $80,000 a year. Anyway, when I was in college, I didn't go out much and really didn't know how to talk to women that well. One semester I was in a class with an absolutely gorgeous girl—a tall, tanned blonde with beguiling green eyes. Dee Dee was in the biggest sorority on campus. We were worlds apart.

Imagine my surprise when, about halfway through the term, she began to talk to me. She was pretty dumb, I have to admit, and I knew she was more interested in copying my homework than in fucking me, but what did I care? I was 20, still plagued by acne, and I had already experienced the heartbreak of psoriasis. For a girl like that to even look at me was a major miracle. She treated me like a retarded cousin, but I let her, coming in my pants with each friendly hug she gave me.

One night, right before finals, she invited me over to her sorority house for a study session with a couple of her sisters. I got stiff as soon as I walked in and saw all those girls lounging around, but I held my books in front of me to hide it. Dee Dee led me upstairs to her room and inroduced me to her friends. Buffy was a redhead, and Megan, a busty brunette with a rather large ass. I opened my books and led the study session. Needless to say, the girls' attention waned quickly, and they soon jabbered away about upcoming football games, parties and boys.

Marsha suggested that we smoke a joint. "You do smoke dope, don't you?" she asked with a mean grin.

Now, I may have been a nerd, but I wasn't stupid. But I decided to play dumb. "Once or twice," I replied timidly.

"She laughed and sparked up a fat number. We passed it around and, while I thought it was fair grass at best, it got them all incredibly stoned. They were giggling and laughing, and it became a game with them to try and shock me.

"Are you a virgin?" Megan asked.

I sputtered and pretended to be incredibly embarrassed.

"I bet he is," Buffy said. "I bet he's never even had a blowjob."

I forced myself to flush bright red, and stared down at the ground.

"Hey, it's okay," Dee Dee said. "We're only kidding. Don't get embarrassed."

My prick was throbbing now. This time I did nothing to conceal my erection.

"Look," Buffy squealed. "He's got a boner." Again, they all laughed.

"Show us," Megan pleaded. I shook my head no.

"If we show you our tits, will you?" Buffy asked.

"Sure," I mumbled. The guys at the dorm would never believe this.

Buffy whipped off her blouse, revealing her tea-cup-size titties with their bright pink nipples. Megan went next. Her jugs were heavy and a bit saggy. Then Dee Dee. I almost came in my pants as she unhooked her bra and revealed her stupendous set.

Never one to back out of a deal, I stood up and unzipped my pants, hoping they were ready for the big surprise in store for them. Even though I was a goofy nerd, I have a thick, ten-inch hose that can choke a horse. When my stiff rod sprang free of my trousers, a shocked silence descended over the room.

"Wow," Dee Dee finally said. "Can I touch it?"

"Sure," I said, smiling proudly.

She reached out and ran her finger down its length. Then she wrapped her hand around it and gave it a few strokes.

Megan was watching and licking her lips. I could tell something was brewing in that pea-brain of hers. "Hey, I've got an idea. Let's give him his first blowjob—for helping us study." The other two readily agreed.

Megan went first, kneeling in front of me and wrapping her thick, dark lips around the strained, bulbous head of my cock. She moved down my throbbing shaft, engulfing my gut wrench. That girl really knew how to suck. She managed to slip almost my entire length of lumber into her gullet.

"My turn," Buffy said. She had a different technique. Instead of gobbling up my love sausage, she licked it savagely, her tiny pink tongue darting around like a crazed lizard.

Dee Dee tapped her on the shoulder and cut in. Down on her knees, she tenderly kissed my red-hot rod from tip to pubic hair. Then she licked it with small cat-like laps from top to bottom. Finally, she took me into her mouth and, although she couldn't deep-throat it, she was able to squeeze a lot of my virgin meat into her mouth.

"I want more," Megan screeched.

"Me too," Buffy cried.

All three girls knelt in front of me and took turns orally copulating my fuck tool. Each of their separate techniques blurred into a wild, sensual montage of strong licks, deep sucks, bobbing heads and jiggling boobs. My balls tightened, and I knew what was coming next. Me.

"I'm gonna shoot," I said.

This set off a new quarrel. All three girls wanted my jizz. They agreed to share. They continued to work on my massive meatpole at the same time. When my knee-buckling orgasm hit, at least a quart of cum was launched in their direction. Spunk was flying everywhere, and those greedy coeds didn't let a drop go to waste. My first shot creamed Dee Dee right on the chin, the second ended up in Megan's mouth, and the third splattered into Buffy's eager face.

That was it. I went back to my dorm and jacked off twice that night.

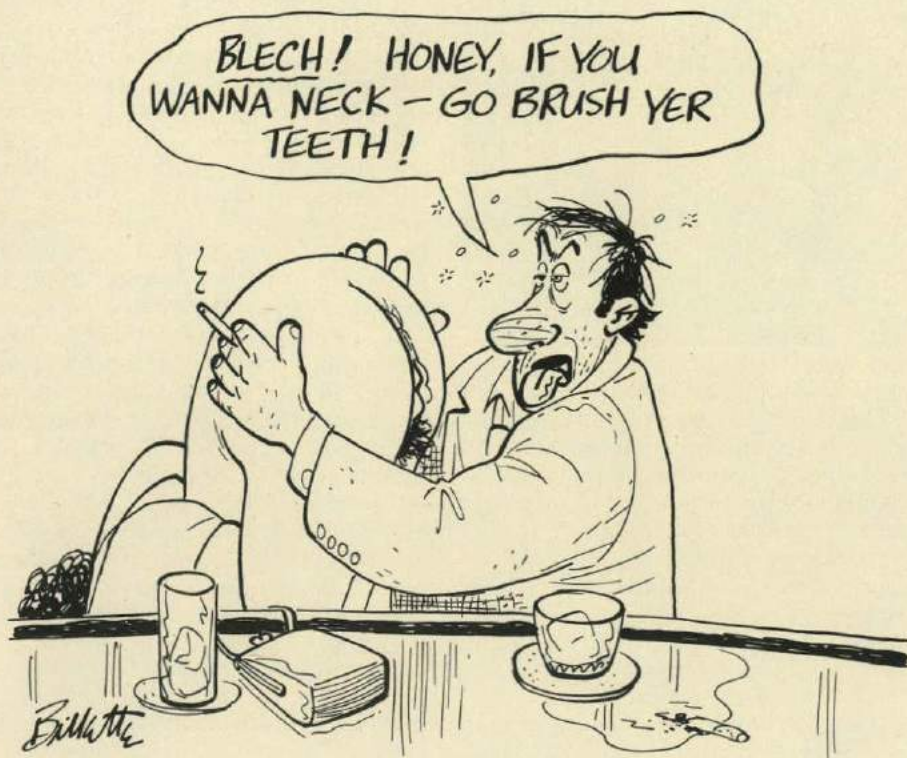

Dee Dee flunked and ended up dropping out to marry a real-estate broker. I never saw her again. If you're reading this, Dee Dee, Buffy, or Megan, thanks for the memories. You guys might have been a bunch of stupid, stuck-up bim-bettes, but you sure did know how to suck cock. 🍆

BITTS and PIECES

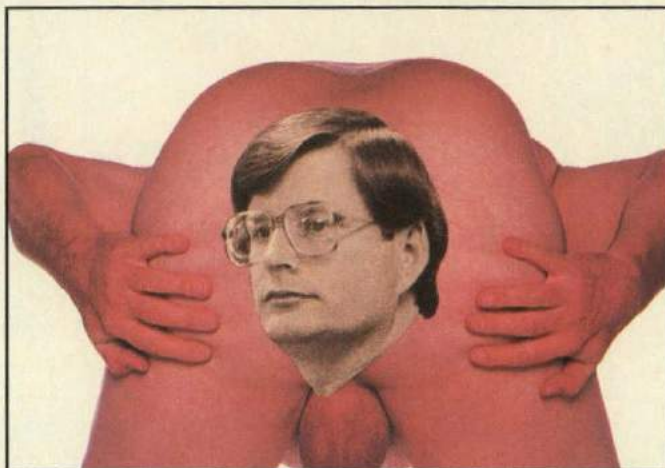

ASSHOLE OF THE MONTH

While the Catholic Church is severely censuring priests who want to bring it out of the dark ages, it warmly embraces a priest who admits queering young boys. That's why Andrew Christian Andersen is Asshole of the Month.

Andersen's grim fairy tale began, as far as we know, in 1983. Parents of an altar boy who Andersen supervised complained to the Orange County, California, diocese that Andersen had molested their child. Andersen underwent a year of psychological counseling, but maintained his supervisory position. In 1985 and 1986 he molested three other boys. He confessed to 26 counts of molestation in a nonjury trial.

As the Andersen saga played to little media attention, the Pope stripped responsibilities from Seattle Archbishop Raymond Hunt-hausen because he made liberal recommendations—that's right, he spread ideas! Meanwhile, Los Angeles archbishop Roger Mahony was encouraging action to defeat proposed health clinics in public schools that would, among other things, provide contraception.

Despite its outward moral heavenly hooley is the danger of letting our laws and lives be dictated by men in dresses.

While the judge lamented that no letters expressed sympathy for the victims—one of whose family left the church—Cardenas suspended Andersen's six-year jail sentence on the condition that he attend, of all things, a psychological-counseling program run by the Catholic Church. It's like accepting a confession from a mobster, then sentencing him to work for a mob don.

The Church's hypocrisy isn't limited to Andersen—who is still a priest. Another diocese of the notably wealthy Church of Rome has paid $5.5 million in 13 out-of-court settlements stemming from another priest/molester case. Such two-faced handling by the world's largest sexual repression organization can only lead to more assholes like Andrew Christian Andersen.

This rare breed of rodent is known for its colorful sex life. Its unusual tail is also an effective defense against predators; they're wary of choking on it. The one exception is the homosexual coyote of Northern California, which has been known to sit on the little critters until the poor things are crushed to death.

There's nothing more embarrassing for a young woman than to be perfectly dressed and made-up for that hot date—and then have the wrong tits for the evening. This lucky lady is taking

All the News That Fits

Alassio, Italy—The Cuckold's Courier is a scandal sheet being distributed in this seaside resort town. The four-page paper, which is published irregularly and slipped under doors late at night, simply lists all the local husbands and wives whose spouses are fooling around on the side. Recent issues have mentioned prominent businessmen and politicians, including the mayor. Defamation charges will undoubtedly be brought against the publishers, if the authorities can find out who they are.

She's No Boob

Huntington Beach, California—Vicki Guest was passed over for the Fountain Valley High School cheerleading squad, but she's not taking it lying down. Vicki and her parents are suing the Huntington Beach school district for $1 million. At issue is the reason given for her rejection—a staff advisor said her breasts were too large and recommended surgery to reduce them. The school district insists the decision does not reflect official policy.

Skirting the Issue

Sao Paulo, Brazil—Businessman Maneco Rezende is financing what he believes will eventually become a hot new fashion item—skirts for men. Two brave men who tested the innovation out on city streets found they may be too far ahead of their time—they were chased by a crowd screaming, "Hang them, hang them!" Still, Rezende feels it's just a matter of time before the idea catches on.

Judgment Calls

Mystic, Connecticut—Eighteen-year-old Doreen Fenton was evidently conducting a one-woman crusade against obscenity during her six-week stint at the Mystic Color Lab. Fenton's job was to look for color defects in the prints but, any time she came across a photo of a nude, she would destroy the print and negative or attach a note reading: "We don't do porn." Taken to court by dissatisfied clients, her case was presented as a justifiable act. Fenton got a suspended sentence—the judge suggested that Attorney General Edwin Meese would have no problems with her actions. What was not pointed out at the hearing, however, was that she also put notes on family portraits, pictures of homes, and the like, which read: "Stuck-up rich people," "Your daughters are ugly," etc.

Magic Kinkdom

Anaheim, California—Minnie Mouse was assaulted and groped not once, but twice in the heart of the Magic Kingdom by 21-year-old Lee Jack Eric Jacques. Jacques was arrested shortly thereafter while still in Disneyland, strolling down Main Street, U.S.A. According to Anaheim police Lt. Bill Wright, the assailant "grabbed her breast and made rude motions with his hips against her body. One of the characters—I think it was Pluto—told the guy to knock it off."

X-RATED FILMS, FUCK TAPES AND MORE

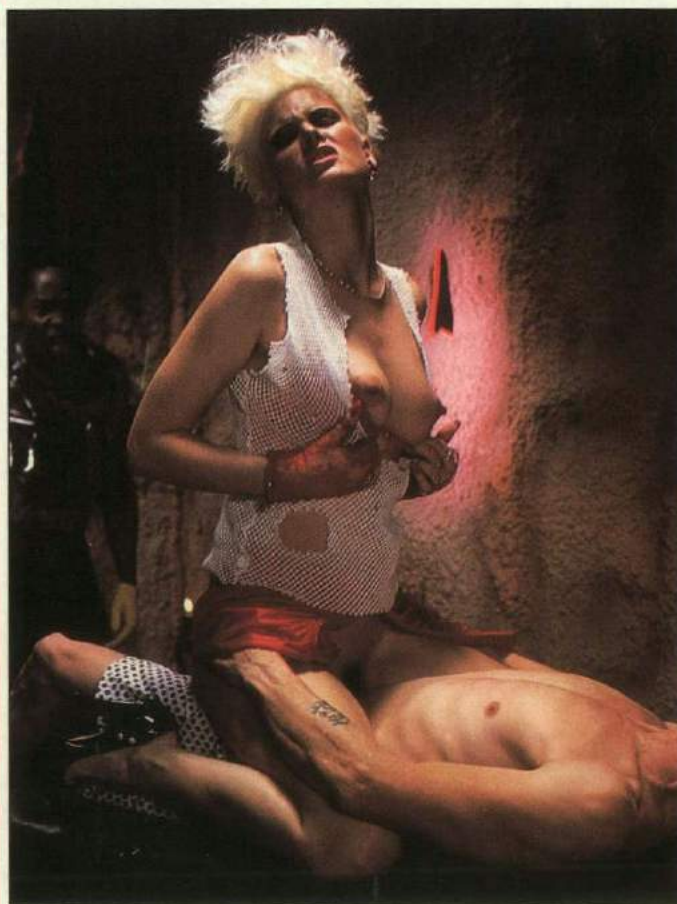

X-RATED FILMS

Edited by Doug Oliver

Millions of adults watch X-rated movies; yet most publications have constantly ignored the obvious need to inform the public as to which films are ripoffs and which ones aren't. HUSTLER's reviews of hard-core erotic films have long been regarded as the yardstick of the industry. We take this function seriously, and we'll continue to keep you abreast of the latest adult-film releases, and also do our best to spur porn producers on to even better productions.

Devil in Miss Jones IV

Fully Erect. Produced and directed by Gregory Dark; written by Gregory Dark and Johnny Jump-Up; starring Lois Ayres, Jack Baker, Paul Thomas, Kevin James, Erica Boyer, Tamara Longley, Kari Foxx, Troy Tannier, Kelli Richards, Steve Powers, Liz Randall, Krista Lane, Ron Jeremy, Patti Petite, Field Marshal Bradley, Robbie Dee, Kristara Barrington, Purple Passion, Marc Wallace and Jim Taylor. Running time: 72 minutes.

Lois Ayres gives a hell of a performance as Miss Jones in Devil IV.

Devil in Miss Jones IV: The Final Outrage is the conclusion to filmmaker Gregory Dark's extraordinary two-part remake of the saga of Justine Jones. Along with DMJ III: A New Beginning (reviewed in HUSTLER, November 1986), this film has masterpiece written all over it. From its outrageous script and excellent acting (but can Jack Baker actually win a much-deserved award for a non-sex role?) to its scorching sexuality and dazzling technical achievements, this movie is to porn what Niagara is to waterfalls.

Picking up where A New Beginning left off, Justine Jones (Lois Ayres), halfway through her journey through hell, is faced with a delicate decision: suck the Rockman's (Kevin James) cock so he'll let her proceed, or stand on principle and rot in Hades? Diving on James's salty stalagmite, Lois barely comes up for air until he's gotten his rocks off.

Safely past this obstacle, Justine is led by her guide, Negro (Baker), to the next level of hell, the Perverse Room, which is peopled by those who nurtured perverted desires on Earth—and who are now doomed to act them out for an eternity or two. There, Justine observes an astonishing array of dirty deeds being done, including an incredible lesbo-liaison between two sluts (Erica Boyer and Tamara Longley) that's so hot, it's a wonder the double-dong connecting their cunts doesn't melt. Boyer and Longley thrust so hard and with such desperate craving that the dildo—which often seems to have a life of its own—disappears inside them as they bump pussies. This remarkable sequence is, arguably, the best lesbian/dildo scene ever filmed.

The next stop is the Racist Room, where Southern belle Patti Petite's ass and pussy are eternally invaded by the pendulous black cocks of Zulu warriors. Meanwhile, American Nazi Marc Wallace is forced to fuck black and Oriental women to a compelling percussion score highlighted by the sound of a Hitler rally and a haranguing preacher.

After a brief interlude, during which Negro bores her with a story about his dreams of a talking pig's head and a disembodied dick floating in space, Justine wanders aimlessly into the Taboo Room, where she watches herself fucking her own aged father. Images of her as a child being molested by dear old dad ricochet through her mind. Horrified, she panics and runs toward the exit sign, only to wake up in her own bed. But where is she, really? And what's Paul Thomas doing there with her?

Find out for yourself. Descend into the pit with Miss Jones. Our lips, as usual, are sealed. —D.O.

Peeping Tom

Three-Quarters Erect. Produced by Bernardo Spinel; directed by Robert McCallum; written by Rinse Dream; starring Kimberly Carson, Jerry Butler, Nina Hartley, Buck Adams, Tracey Adams, Robert Bullock, Nick Random, Sheri St. Clair, Leslie Winston, Shanna McCullough, Joey Silvera, Kristara Barrington, Jon Martin and Honey Wilder. Running time: 82 minutes.

Picture this: A bare stage. Blue background. Night. A circular bed bathed in a larger circle of white light. A music stand and several mannequin torsos placed like sculptures around the bed. A platinum-blond maid slowly pushes a vacuum cleaner around the shadowy edge of the circle. On the bed a man excites his partner by teasing her nude flesh with vacuum-cleaner attachments. They fuck. When he comes, the camera freezes on Jerry Butler spying on the couple through stylized venetian blinds while the opening titles roll.

From this visually intriguing first scene, the film reverts to the realistic settings this director—and his budget—are more comfortable with: homes and offices. And we're shown the story of wildly successful businessman, William Burke (Butler), whose deep, dark secret is that he's a peeping Tom.

When reporters Tracey Adams and Robert Bullock come to interview Burke, questions about his personal life cause him to fantasize watching them fuck—from many exciting angles. Also in the daydream is a mysterious woman in white (Kimberly Carson) who appears in his other fantasies. Snapping out of it, Burke gets rid of the reporters and races off to see his psychiatrist. Although we don't see her face, anyone with an I.Q. high enough to pull his zipper down will immediately recognize that the shrink and the woman in white are one and the same and that psychological forces are at work here.

A few more voyeuristic episodes, a mental crackup in which Burke reveals the peeping Tom's creed, "When you're watching something really hot, it's worth the shame—it's worth anything," and we're ready for the predictable end: The shrink cures him by fucking him.

Though the simple-minded story has flaws that wouldn't be so apparent had it been presented in settings similar to that of the surreal opening, Peeping Tom is well worth watching for the high caliber of its sex scenes. Particularly bone-building are the Adams/Bullock coupling, Carson—one of porn's unsung wonders—effecting Butler's cure, and a sensational encounter between Nina Hartley and Buck Adams in which Nina sucks Buck like there's no tomorrow, and Buck plugs her as if he hadn't just come—and comes again!

If by chance the film's sexual magic transforms anyone watching it into a peeping Tom, at least we now know what the cure is. —D.O.

Female Aggressors

Half Erect. Produced, directed and written by Paul Norman; starring Amber Lynn, Nina Hartley, Vanessa D'Oro, Nikki Randall, Kimi Gee, Summer Rose, Michael Stephano, Peter Lynn, David Garnet, Tony Martino, Anthony Llama and Kevin James. Running time: 90 minutes.

Female Aggressors' strongest point is an extremely attractive cast that sports a number of welcome, new male faces as well as the remarkable talents of Amber Lynn, Vanessa D'Oro, Nina Hartley and Nikki Randall. The story and episodic format, however, are so overused, so antiquated, that you'll want to pinch yourself every so often as a way of touching base with 1987. Get this: Four girls sit around Lynn's living room, sipping wine and talking about the guys they've seduced. How's that for originality?

Randall is the first aggressor to fess up. In her story, frat pledge Michael Stephano is dropped off—tied, blindfolded and naked—in front of a sorority house. Coeds Randall, Kimi Gee and Summer Rose find him, lead him inside and have their way with him. After sucking the helpless stud's cock and teasing him with tastes of their pussies, he's led, still blindfolded, into Nikki for a mystery fuck.

After shaving his balls, Nina Hartley brings her excellent cocksucking skills into play in her scene with Tony Martino.

Voluptuous Vanessa takes on two guys (Peter Lynn and David Garnet) in a sequence that features some shrimping and foot licking (to keep the fetishists on their toes). After receiving beyond-a-blowjob mouth-fucks and drilling her snatch, the gents inundate her with great streams of cum—which is given an instant replay for heightened effect.

Amber's story is silly—a sparring match with her martial-arts instructor (Anthony Llama) turns into an energetic coupling—but it contains one of the greatest shots we've seen in months: Llama spreads Amber's pussy wide open, then thrusts his tongue so far inside that his face almost gets ripped off when her snatch slams shut.

To tie it all together, Amber drags out slave-on-a-leash Kevin James so that her guests (except for Randall, who's disappeared without explanation) can hone their humiliation skills and slake their script-induced sexual thirsts.

A couple of hot scenes and an intriguing cast make Female Aggressors fairly enjoyable, but it's such a throwback to adult bookstore loops, don't be surprised if you find yourself occasionally reaching into your pocket for more quarters.

—D. O.

Female Aggressors' Nikki Randall gives Michael Stephano the taste test.

A Thousand and One Erotic Nights, Part II

Three-Quarters Erect. Produced by Sandra Winters; directed by Edwin Durrell; written by Sandra Winters and Edwin Durrell; starring Francois Papillon, Kari Foxx, Jamie Gillis, Patti Petite, Jon Martin, Buffy Davis, Kelli Richards, Karen Bree, Jennifer Noxt, Bunny Bleu, Kristara

HUSTLER MARCH

Bunny Bleu and Nina Hartley are between the sheiks in 1001 II.

Barrington, Tami White, Constance Drew, Linda Lipps, Alexis Greco, Nina Hartley, Chris Chase, Joey Silvera and Steve Drake. Running time: 75 minutes.

This attempt to cash in on a well-known title has little to do with the producers' original film, and also manages to misrepresent lon's Arabian night stick, shot almost entirely in close-up and slo-mo—maybe a little too much slo-mo. After the barely visible cum-shot, the voice-over narration informs us that things weren't always so pleasant in sultanland. His Highness was once bored and had trouble getting it up. The remedy? A sex contest to find the sultan a wife.

We then see the preliminaries that include Patti Petite giving the blowjob of the year to Jon Martin—she throats him so deeply, it brings tears to her eyes—and two bare-bummed “sisters” (Tami White and Constance Drew) who tickle each other as a prelude to their lesbian interlude, but who don't make the finals because they “look too young, and the sultan has an image to maintain.”

Next come the finalists. Decadent Lady Viviane (Kelli Richards) leads the court in a sizzling orgy that ends in a fizzle with one of the duller ass/pussy double porks (Papillon/Richards/Chris Chase) on celluloid, and Mistress Elita (statuesque Rhonda Jo Petty lookalike Karen Bree) initiates the sultan into the tepid delights of make-believe bondage, but it's Scheherazade who captures the sultan's heart with her beauty as they fuck while watching themselves in a mirror. Presumably, they then get married, thus paving the way for the sultan's slo-mo blowjobs.

Because of its emphasis on sensuality, Erotic Nights, Pt. II should be popular with couples. As well-made as it is, however, it would have benefited from a bit more desert heat.

Adult entertainment has diversified. Videotapes produced exclusively for home viewing are now being manufactured and can be purchased at this country's nearly 50,000 video stores, or through scores of mail-order companies. To help you sort out the best from the rest, HUSTLER provides these capsule reviews of the newest X-rated home videos, as well as the latest happenings in the world of erotic entertainment.

Diamond Collection, Vol. 76

(Cinderella Distributors) This super loop collection clocks in at under an hour and packs six hard-punching porkings into that brief timespan. Obviously, Vol. 76 is stripped of everything but the bare-boning essentials, and it loses nothing in this economy of presentation. The performers get onscreen two-by-two, get down to it, do it and go away. Next! The sex is shot clearly and close up, with clean BJs, intense penetration and relatively quick-and-thick cum-shots. The talent is USDA-Grade, featuring seldom-seen Gina Valentino, as well as Dorothy Oh and retiree Christy Canyon. The action ranges from straight fuck to ass-fuck to jerkoff, highlighted by a double-stuffing threeway involving big, black King Paul, slut-blond Lili Marlene and a long, thick, cunt-invading fake snake with its head in a condom. This collection is apt to turn even the most sluggish snake into a diamond cutter.

Tunnel of Love

(Classic Editions Video) The love tunnel that gives this tape its title is the tight, wet one behind Tish Ambrose's pussy lips—and tasty Tish takes every opportunity that arises to have her carnal cavern filled with flesh, be it tongue, finger or man-muscle. It seems Ambrose has a problem: Every guy she meets wants to plug her, and she just can't say no. Girlfriend Krista Lane decides that Tish needs a weekend in the country with the girls—a little time off to let her pussy cool down. Things don't go according to plan, however. Ambrose's quim is bone-bait, and every dude in the region is drawn to it like bees to cunny. Steve Powers is the first one in. Randy West and Francois Papillon let Tish come between them—West up her ass, Francois in her pussy. Even Lane falls victim to the sexual magnetism that Tish is unable to switch off. In the finale, Ambrose and her comely cast mates (Lane, Candi Evans and Paula Harlow) get their well-lubed love tunnels porked by the wieners of their studs. The perky Ambrose is fun to watch. Strokers will be more than satisfied by this trip through the Tunnel of Love.

Getting L.A.'d

(Paradise Visuals) Despite all the top name talent in Getting L.A.'d, it rarely rises above a level of numbing mediocrity. Lackluster humping by almost everyone in the cast and embarrassingly cheap production values make this title one for the fast-forward button. The fractured storyline finds a depressed Nina Hartley complaining to Kristara Barrington about boyfriend Jamie Gillis's disappearances. Barrington suggests getting away for a while; so the two head off to the mountains. There Hartley drifts into a fantasy in which she dreams of being eaten by Amber Lynn, then reamed by Buck Adams, Troy Tannier and Kari Foxx in a hot fourway. Shoehorned into this story is a dumb subplot featuring Ron Jeremy and Amber Lynn as vacationing spouses who like to cheat on each other. Jeremy gets his bone milked by Bunny Bleu and Kari Foxx, while Amber gets dicked by Don Fernando and Troy Tannier. The tape's only bright spot comes toward the end when Barrington comes upon

Jerry Butler, who plays a monk. Actually, he comes upon her after giving the Oriental beauty a drilling that has her begging for more. This scene, along with the fourway, save Getting L.A. 'd from porn oblivion. Except for a few good facials in these scenes, this is one dry hump. —Sam Lowry

The Best Little Whorehouse in Beverly Hills

(Cinderella Distributors) Believe it or don't: This video chronicles the goings-on at a highly esteemed little whorehouse in Beverly Hills. Erica "Boy, Oh," Boyer is a trick-turning madam, and sleek, ebony-checked Mauvais DeNoire is her best girl. Between the two they take on six Johns (white, black and brown—all large) and muff-munch whiter-than-white new whore Lori Lovitt. The best transactions include blond Greg Derek's chin sticking up DeNoire's dusky ass crack before he saturates her bush with whipped jizz. Boyer's sudsy bathtub penis-slurp of Frank James and her outdoor cock-scarf of Scott Irish, and Field Marshal Bradley's deep, dark thrusting into DeNoire. Drawbacks are three kink teasers; one with whip and handcuffs, one with diapers and baby bottles and one with zucchini and carrot—none of which go beyond titillation. But Best Little's real failing is in the quantity of quality cooze. Though Boyer and DeNoire each have the libido of at least a woman-and-a-half, a good whorehouse needs more girls. —C. S.

When you have a hospital staff made up of Danielle, Nikki Randall, Porsche Lynn, Tiffany Blake and Carolyn Connelly, the odds are that you'll recover or get fucked to death trying. St. X-Where is a nonstop, wall-to-wall sex-a-thon that smokes and scorches. Joey Silvera, the hot-rodded Dr. Cardigan, plows through Danielle in a crotch-burning doctor/nurse grind, and shares his Hippocratic loaf with fellow M.D. Randall (Hey, we never said this was realistic) in another thrill-and-spill romp. New RN Lynn proves she's no nookie rookie in a feverish cunt-lapping with Randall, and sends temperatures into the danger zone in a heated threeway with Jerry Butler and Silvera. She reduces the two docs to ashes before disappearing under the torrential faceful of Butler's hot load. St. X-Where packs a corker in every scene and features some of the loudest screaming and moaning this side of a sex asylum during a full moon. There are numerous funny ad-libs throughout, and the production is relatively strong, with clear sound and probing camerawork. St. X-Where is a hospital you'll be happy to be admitted to—even without insurance. —S. presence of Tish Ambrose and nothing—and no one—else. Ambrose is in three of the tape's five sex scenes, and things fairly crackle when she's fucking, sucking or licking. Delectable Tracey Adams is given only a brief dildodiddle and a lackluster hump with Jason Brooks—a waste of her talents—and most of the other performers similarly simply go through the motions. Besides the uninspiring sex, we're accosted by bad acting, painful dialogue and bargain-basement production values. Ambrose makes Hot Seat watchable—unless you're not one of her fans, in which case, pass this one by. —S. L.

Afro Erotica, Vol. 2

(Wet Video) Afro Erotica, Vol. 2 is a slickly packaged compilation of scenes taken from previous releases such as Let Me Tell Ya 'Bout Black Chicks and Black Bun Busters. There are five couplings in AE 2's 60 minutes. Except for one black-on-black ball-blasters

(in which a big-bunned black chick demonstrates that the best position for a woman in a black-power movement is on her back), all of the slurping and jerking is two-tone. There's no need to describe these scenes; if you're a fan of chocolate/vanilla pork-work, you've seen them—especially Marc Wallace butt-banging Sahara up against a wall. But there's only one instance of white cum spurting from black bone on white buns, a baby-oiled lezbo slip-and-slide is mostly just rubbing (though Penny Morgan does stick her face into a tart of darkness), the final scene (Ron Jeremy dicking a dark slab of meat who looks like Ron Jeremy might, were he a big black woman) is scary, and some fucks depoint is a videotaping of a still-photo shoot, another is Peter North sticking his tongue out at the camera. It's nice to see Amber Lynn, in what is purportedly her video debut, but most of this stuff is cut out of finished product because it's tediously unerotic—much like filmmaking itself. This should have stayed on the video equivalent of the cutting-room floor. —C. S.

X-Rated Bloopers & Outtakes

(Superstar Video) This string of pointless, disconnected, incomplete sequences seems to have been put together as an illustration of the filmmaking editing process. Bloopers is 90 minutes of test shots of porn people sitting around looking bored, camera-focusing, tepid sex—with camera operators and everybody else talking—and the director (Bobby Hollander) wheedling, kvetching and arguing with his performers and crew. There is very-little-to-no hot action, and perhaps one laugh per half hour. One high on the three R's; reaming, rimming and ramming, and the pert and pretty pupils excel in these areas of frankly physical education. Nikki Charm provides the tape with its very hottest encounter. Charm's juvenile, jailbait appearance and her super-slut in rut, dirty talkin', deep-throatin', hard-humpin' erotic energy make her main scene shoot off the high end of the peter meter. Nasty nubile Nikki has the most photogenic genitals in the business, and when Tom Byron slips his famous fucktool to her, the screen burns. It's a short trip downhill after that super-charged opener. The other tonguings and bonings, which include Haven and hubby Billy in a 69 and a so-so screw on the floor; Ms. Haven instructing Sheri St. Clair and Sheena Horne in the fine points of pussy eating; and Scott Irish jamming his dick up Sheri's shit chute, get good marks, but Nikki, alone, goes to the head of the class. —B. Saturday Night Beaver (Penguin Productions) Sultry, ultra-foxy Vanessa D'Oro and Tiffany Blake, who matches her little-girl looks with a prodigious cocksucking expertise, are the main attractions of Saturday Night Beaver, each throwing writhing, kiss-heavy fucks onto Joey Silvera. Silvera stars as a lovelorn lad whose big brother (John Holmes) prescribes a stiff regimen of pussy-hunting to cure his younger sibling's depression. This course of treatment results in a series of straight lays and one mixed-race threesome, many of which are masterfully intercut. Highlights include a Holmes wad totally transforming the lower half of Bambi Allen's face, Jim Harker's white jizz on Angel Kelly's sweet black breasts and three boffings of generic porn blondes. Beaver's main drawbacks are insufficient use of Blake's thrusting lower lip and the brevity of the final scene: the only boning of D'Oro. The new Vanessa's firm melons and other plentiful attractions deserve much greater exposure. —C. S.

CONFESSIONS OF A FEMINIST Sex SLAVE

LIFE
MASOCHIST

by Amy
Cuvier

FEMINIST SEX SLAVE

We've made love once already, but our orgasms have stimulated rather than exhausted us.

Like most long-established couples our Saturday-night sex has fallen into a comfortable routine. After a slow afternoon and a light dinner we circle around each other in the living room, flirting lazily to feel out the other's mood. When the sparks finally begin to fly, we slip into our roles like seasoned actors. "Slut!" he'll say with a suddenly stern expression. "Who told you that you could walk around dressed like a free woman? Strip at once or suffer the consequences!"

Sometimes I obey promptly, tearing off my clothes in a frenzy of lust. More often I whimper a protest or remove only a token item, deliberately inviting him to fulfill his threat. With a combination of riding crop and commanding manner he does just that. Thirty minutes later I find myself spread-eagled and face down on the bed, a leather cuff locking each wrist and ankle to eyebolts in the bedposts, a metal-studded collar around my neck. I'm getting my favorite Saturday-night action. With a twist.

I'm a voluntary sex slave, a female sexual masochist. You might have some pretty weird ideas about what that means, but rest assured, I don't spend all my time chained to the bed or locked in a cage, thinking about when I'm gonna fuck next. When we're not playing, my mate doesn't boss me around—I'd stand that shit for maybe two seconds. And I sure don't let myself be sold to the highest bidder! I'm with Paul because he's the only one who turns me on.

I'm hardheaded and loudmouthed, with definite ideas about what I want, both in and out of bed. I insist on equal control in the bedroom and total control over my career. I am, in every sense, a feminist sex slave.

If ever three words aroused more consternation than I love you, they've got to be feminist sex slave. My sisters in the women's movement certainly aren't delighted that I live out my fantasies in bed. When a group of feminist lesbians began threatening the boundaries of "politically correct" sex by admitting an interest in S&M, other feminists responded with the book-length essay collection, Against Sadomasochism: A Radical Feminist Analysis.

The quality of this "analysis" makes the Meese Commission look scientific. "I define sadomasochism as any mode of behavior that demonstrates hate," says pious political spiritualist Vivienne Walker-Crawford. Others accuse sadomasochists of betraying the cause. "Whose interests do these feelings serve?" asks contributor Jesse Meredith. "Specifically, when women practice dominance and submission in their sexual relationships, does this perpetuate the values of the patriarchal ruling class, whose stock-in-trade is dominance and submission? I believe that it does."

In that case I should be a hit with conservative men, but that isn't so. "How dare you mock God's plan for you?" cried an indignant lover who was also a charismatic Christian. "You should submit to me out of duty to the Lord, not because it turns you on!" A conservative former friend said bluntly: "You need treatment." At any rate S&M is so far from being a traditional sexual practice that a masochist still runs the risk of being declared mentally incompetent. Clearly, society doesn't accept women who enjoy unusual kinds of sex—particularly if their sex games satirize traditional views of a woman's role.

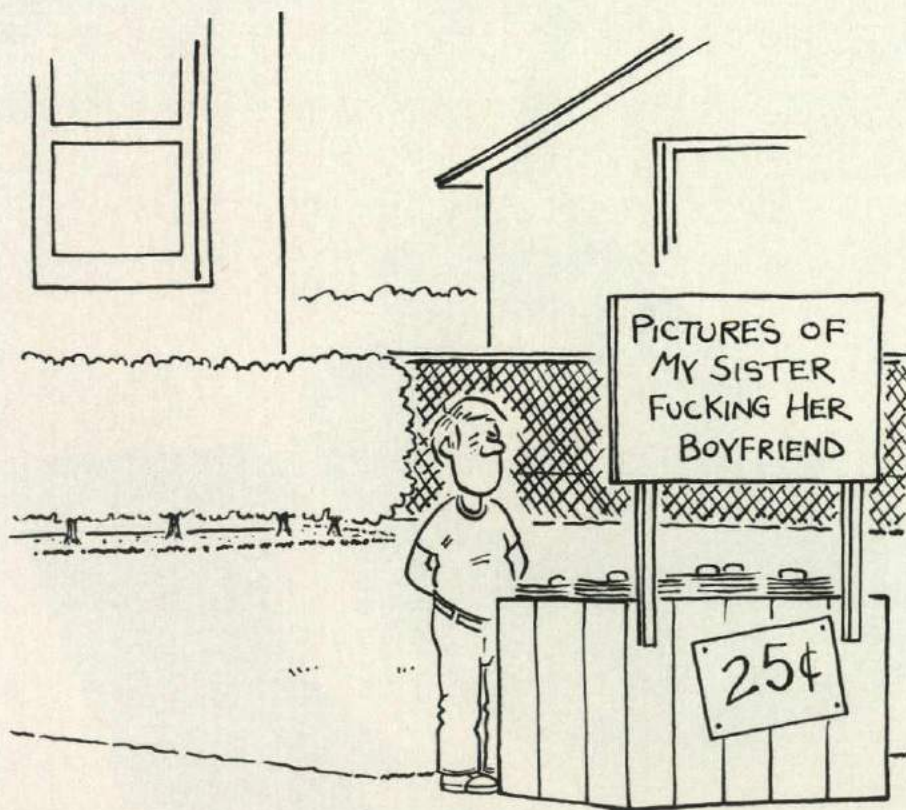

Even the liberal proponents of live-and-let-live seem uneasy about women like me. A recent Penthouse article, for instance, called Class II pornography (S&M and fetish material) "offputting." Writers of popular sex manuals often ignore S&M altogether, or relegate it to the back of the book. One man who attended a college sex-education course found that the usually liberal instructor discussed S&M in a single lecture that also included nonconsensual practices such as child molesting and bestiality. Disturbed by the implication, the student conferred with the teacher about his recurrent bondage fantasies. "Oh, you'll get over them when you get more experience with women," was the dismissive reply.

Many people with good intentions want me to get help before some Mr. Goodbar-type to carves me up. It's hard to feel grateful when my freedom to live my life is threatened at the core. I get tired of repeating that I'm not looking to get hurt. Like any other healthy person, I'm looking for sex that makes me feel good.

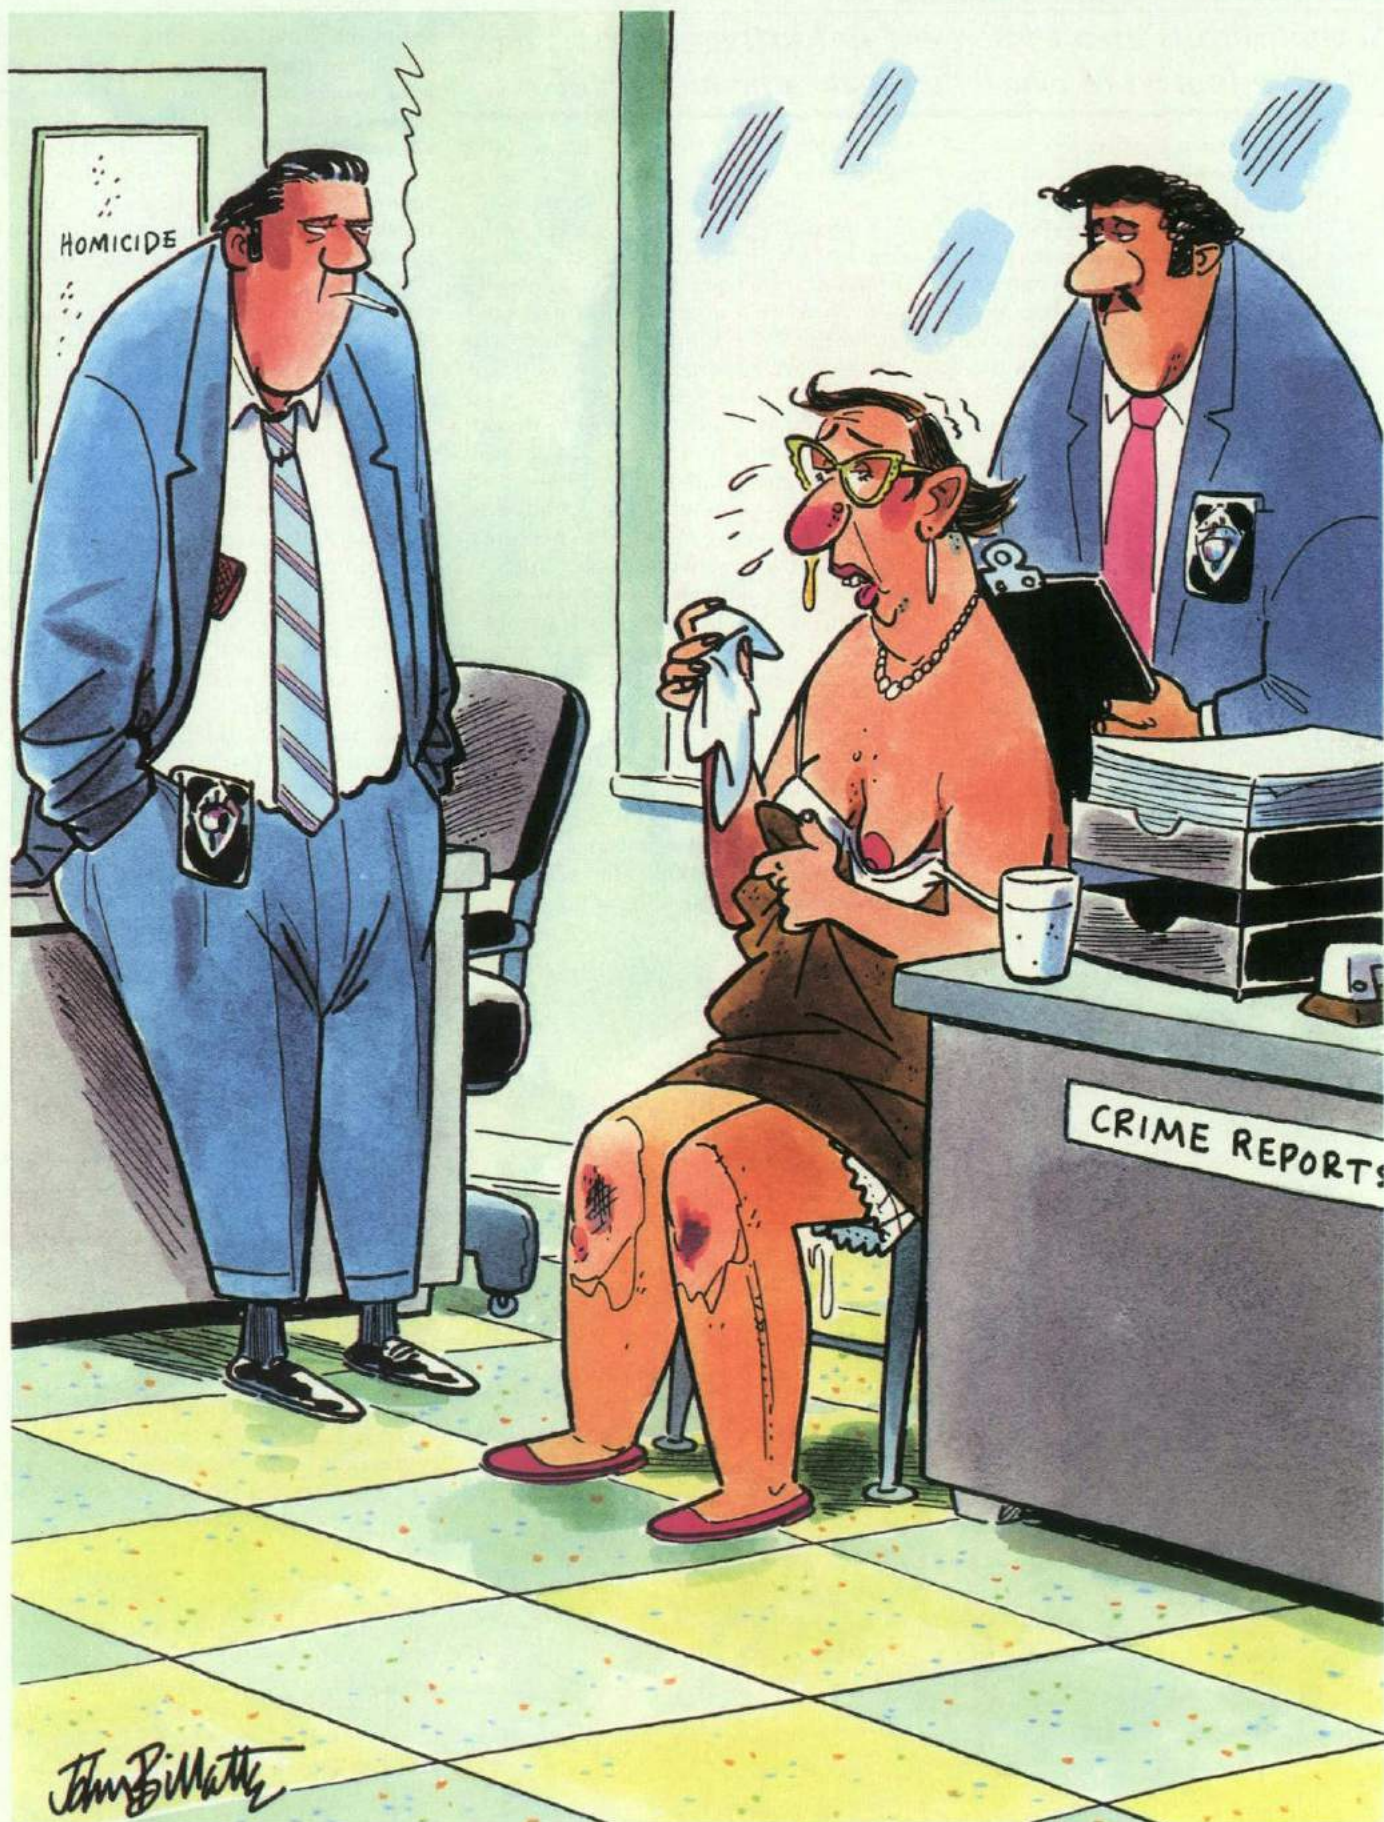

* * *

We usually prefer chains, since ropes can slip and pull too tight, ending a scene before we're ready. But sometimes we take advantage of that slippery quality.

We've made love once already, but our orgasms have stimulated rather than exhausted us. Paul begins to wrap rope around my wrists with the smoothness of long practice. I wriggle and squirm, never quite hard enough to get away. He finishes tying me, faceup, wrists together over my head, ankles held apart by ties to the bedposts. Rising, he towers over me so that I can see his arrogant cock standing stiff and proud. "Here's the bet," he says. "If you can get out of that before 20 minutes pass, I'll fuck you again. If not, I'll spank your ass ten times and make you leave your panties at home when we go out!" He picks up the small alarm clock and places it where I can't see how much time passes as I struggle.

And struggle I do as he pads naked about the apartment. At one point I hear him fixing himself a drink. Later he switches on the stereo. To cover up the sound of spanking? I wonder with a wicked thrill. How much time do I have left? Will he cheat? Sometimes a master cheats just to keep you on your toes. . . .

It's close. I'm just freeing one wrist from the knotted rope as the alarm sounds. Paul smiles. "Too bad. You were doing so well." Slowly, teasingly, he frees my ankles and flips me over his knee for a spanking. A little later we slip out for a cocktail at a nearby bar. My bare, pink butt kisses the barstool, reminding me of my secret: I'm naked under my leather mini. I can hardly wait until we get back to the apartment. The next fuck is going to blow the roof off.

* * *

A lot of the anxiety about S&M is the direct result of the taboo—since we're not supposed to talk about it, a lot of people aren't sure what it really is. (I once mentioned the subject to a 25-year-old officer in the armed forces. He'd never heard of it.) The S&M encounter described above is fairly indicative of what we do. Sadomasochism isn't about kidnapping strange women and selling them to oil sheiks, nor is it about beating your wife when things go wrong. There are other words for those activities, words such as violence, rape and assault. Sexual sadomasochism is a voluntary activity that two (or more) do for fun. As one speaker said at a workshop attended by researcher Gini Graham Scott, "If you don't have consensuality and safety, you don't have S&M. You have violence."

Yet the belief persists that sexual masochists want to give up all control over their safety. Rosemarie Santini, author of The Secret Fire: How Women Live Their Sexual Fantasies, commits the common error of confusing sexual masochism with a pathological desire for destruction. "Responsibility and direct anger are feared by the masochist, and their avoidance can lead to her death, not only the desired psychological death of the ego, but physical death." Masochists, she thinks, are so busy creaming over the pain, they don't realize their lives are in danger. Bull! I don't get off on oral surgery or stubbing my toe. Outside the sexual context—where a nonharmful amount of pain is enjoyed because it emphasizes my sexual submission—pain is painful. I avoid it.

Paula J. Caplan, in her groundbreaking study The Myth of Women's Masochism, couldn't find any psychologically masochistic women, either in her casework or in the literature on the subject. What superficial analyses had termed masochism or self-destructiveness turned out to be the opposite in every case she studied. For example, a battered wife might stay with an abusive husband because she needed his income to feed their children—hardly a sick or self-destructive motive. As for sexual masochists, Caplan found that they enjoyed S&M because it intensified and prolonged good sex, not because they got off on agony.

The other half of the myth is also untrue: Sexual sadism is not about chopping up women for lunch. There is a very rare psychosis, unfortunately also called sadism, in which a person (almost always male) captures, tortures and kills non-consenting people, often women or children. However, that's not S&M—that's a sickness! Sexual sadists aren't interested in hurting anybody; they merely act out a fantasy in which they sometimes pretend to hurt or capture somebody.

There's no proof that sadomasochists are more likely than others to suffer from psychosis. Evidence to the contrary comes from one of sexual freedom's most distinguished enemies, psychiatrist and researcher Charles Socarides. Here's a doctor so conservative that he proposes a classification system in which gay men and women, as well as sadomasochists and fetishists, are bluntly labeled as perverts. Yet, he says, "even in the depths of regression," involved in what sounds like a really brutal course of treatment, "they do not become psychotic."

A raid on our home would uncover some scary-looking stuff. Exhibit A: an eight-foot bullwhip that Paul bought to wear with his Halloween costume, prompting a cop to warn him that it was a dangerous weapon. And so it might be in the hands of Indiana Jones. But Paul knows it's just a prop.

The whips we really use were lovingly chosen so that we can stretch out the Sultry Sonda relishes the good life when she's got it. For now, she's left the States behind to bum around in Paris, where the dark-skinned beauty is getting plenty of praise from the natives. "It's true what they say about Frenchmen," says the not-so-innocent abroad. "They really are marvelous lovers. And snails aren't the only things they know how to eat!" Our lovely lass is having no trouble adjusting to the land of frog legs and terrorist bombings. "I always knew I'd love it here," she laughs, "ever since I first tried French kissing. A good master adds to the sexual suspense by skillfully delaying the slave's climax.

game without breaking my skin or causing deep bruises. An injury wouldn't be sexy, but the warm glow from my leather-covered paddle or stinging little riding crop certainly is. Sometimes Paul orders me to rub myself off as he spans me. Other times, I get so excited, I do it without waiting for his command.

If S&M isn't about hurting and being hurt, then what is it about? In a word, theater. "Let's Pretend" is the name of the game. Since they're usually played with two people, most scenes revolve around natural dualities—master/slave, cop/crook, owner/dog, parent/child, interrogator/spy. As in any drama, there's a fictional conflict between the main players; yet on a deeper level they work together to create the best possible scene.

If I think a scene's getting too rough, I can call it off in an instant. But I seldom have to. Like all good "tops," Paul has grown so sensitive that he can usually tell from the way I say "no" whether I mean, "No way!" or "Please, master!"

You'd think we were putting on a Broadway play. We build or buy equipment, prepare special costumes, specify precise amounts of pain as well as favorite and taboo actions, and agree on key words, insults and phrases. Some people even use special names when they're in their roles. The resemblance to a theatrical production is so strong that sociologist Thomas S. Weinberg calls it "scripting."

By any name it's an ongoing adventure: hunting down the perfect whip, trying on the right leather bra, anticipating the most delicious sequence of events. In striking contrast to conventional sex, which stresses the achievement of release through orgasm, S&M emphasizes the big buildup. A good master adds to the sexual suspense by skillfully delaying the slave's climax. The play's the thing, not the erection or the orgasm. As a result the ultimate release is strong and explosive.

Since too much emphasis on coming severely limits lovemaking, non-S&M people can learn to enjoy sessions originally begun only to please an S&M partner. In fact, the buildup's so much fun that some masochists (not me!) skip fucking altogether.

For whatever poorly understood reason vicarious experience is an important part of human life. Let's Pretend isn't just a kiddie game; it's something we do every time we lose ourselves in a movie, play, TV show or novel. When caught up in the story, we either laugh, cry, cheer or groan, just as if the drama were real and happening to us. I'm different only in that sometimes I choose to write and enact my own script.

* * *

It's been a long day. I get out of my clothes and collapse on the bed. "Wanna play?" Paul asks. But I'm just too exhausted to move. No problem. After spreading me facedown, he puts on his leather gloves and massages my weary body. By the time he's teasing my thighs, I'm purring like a kitten.

Clearly, we people into S&M think it's about pleasure and trust, not pain and hate. But some people believe S&M is dangerous to society, especially to women and children. Why? Philosopher Hilde Hein suggests this reason: "To degrade someone, even with that person's expressed consent, is to endorse the degradation of persons. It is to affirm that the abuse of persons is acceptable." (The italics are hers.) I'd be terribly confused to suppose my erotic pleas for Paul's cock bear any resemblance to a battered woman's pleas for mercy!

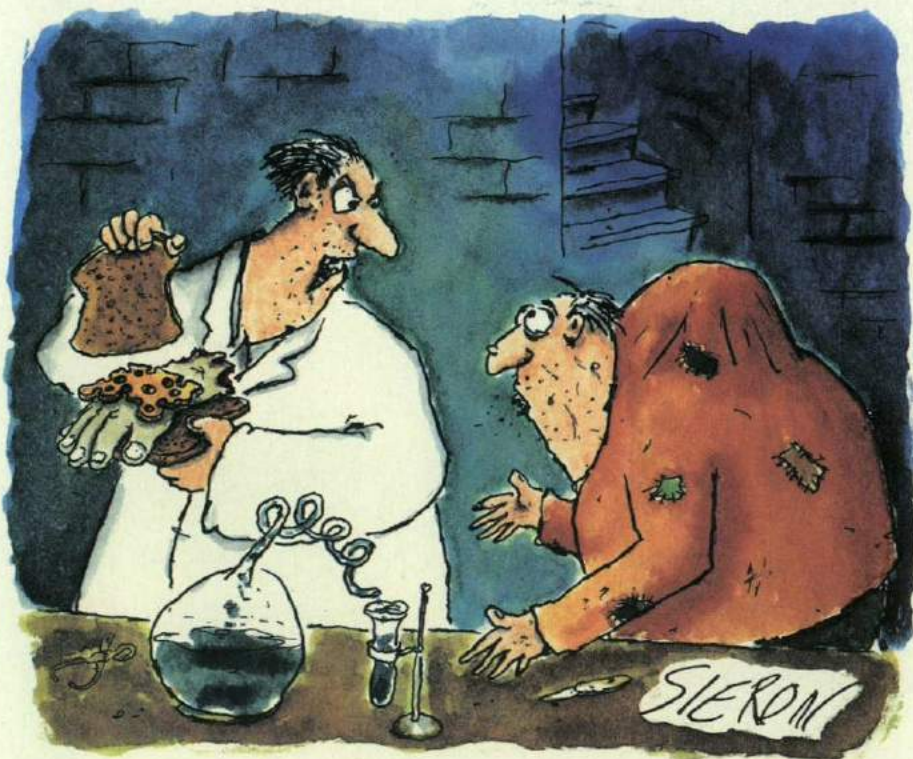

Christina V. Pacosz, a radical-feminist poet who has gone public about her struggle to end her S&M activities and fantasies, raises a related question: "How could I be concerned and active about human rights, peace . . . oh, a myriad and ever-multiplying list, when I was recreating scenes of violence and torture and starring in them?" Rather than orgasm to S&M images, she has become celibate.

The energy Pacosz put into censoring her thoughts might have been better spent working toward righting the world's wrongs. But as someone who once wrestled with the same question, I stress that S&M is not an insult aimed at the oppressed people of the world.

S&M most assuredly does help certain individuals learn to respect the freedom of others. "What scares me," says Paul, "is that I might have swallowed all the male bullshit if I hadn't been into S&M. But with fantasies like this, I've really felt driven to do some soul-searching to make sure I was treating women fairly." As a result, he's made two people happier and freer. I know I'm respected as an equal at home if nowhere else, and he doesn't have to live buried under a macho mask.

SAMOIS, a lesbian/feminist S&M group that published Coming to Power: Writings and Graphics on Lesbian S&M, has observed a similar process. Writer Johanna Reimoldt, a SAMOIS member, comments: "The plain fact is S&M people

TRIALS and TRIBULATIONS of a SMUT COMIC

by Robert Schimmel

Dirty, obscene, sleazy, rancid, foul, gross, nasty, filthy and outrageous! If that was a review for a porn movie, there'd be a line around the block. For a book it would mean the best-seller list. But for me it's the kiss of death. I'm a standup comic.

My peers have crowned me King of the Dick Jokes, Prince of Porn, Sultan of Smut. But I don't care. Just like dogs that fuck in the street and don't give a shit who's watching, neither do I. Why should I care who watches dogs fuck in the street? That's their business. Live and let live is my motto.

What have I done to earn this reputation? I deal with a taboo subject. I talk about sex. Some of my peers insist that by working dirty, I go for the easy laughs. Fuck them. They even say that those laughs don't count, that the response is nervousness and embarrassment.

That's bullshit. Audiences aren't that stupid. They know the difference between shock humor and good humor. Shock humor is pulling your dick out onstage. Good humor is ice cream.

Besides, what's so easy about what I do? I start with a room full of strangers and a taboo topic, and I end up with a group of laughing, intimate human beings. They realize that no matter who we are, we all share a common denominator: sex. And they all find humor in their own sexuality. If that's going for the easy laugh, then what's pulling a rubber glove over your head or smashing a watermelon with a sledgehammer—intellectual humor?

I love to make people laugh. For me it's the ultimate high. Better than sex. But then again, you don't know my wife. (Only kidding, honey.) All my life I dreamed of being a comedian. But in those dreams, people never told me what I could or couldn't say to get laughs. In reality they often do. Censorship is alive and well in comedy.

As an artist, facing censorship is like discovering on your honeymoon that your newlywed spouse has herpes. You can fuck all you want if you're willing to take a chance and pay the price. Certain club owners and booking agents have repeatedly warned, threatened or even banned me from their stages because I refused to change my act and did it my way. (Only kidding, Frank.)

Actually, I am being censored as I write this article. Not by HUSTLER, but by club owners and booking agents. They wish to remain anonymous. They don't want people to know that they censor the acts in their clubs. If I do mention them, I'll never work their clubs again.

On that note, I recently worked a club in the Pacific Northwest. Moments before showtime the owner requested that I tone down my act. He told me to eliminate any "fucks" from the show. (So I asked him to leave.) He didn't find it funny. Just one dirty joke, and I'd be out on my ass. He said the customers liked and appreciated good, clean humor. Minutes later he was trying to bang a cocktail waitress in the back room while his pregnant wife was taking tickets at the door.

Why am I hassled constantly? I talk about sex in my act. About 90% of my act revolves around sex. The other 10%? I'm working on it. I cover every aspect of sex. Anal sex, oral sex, animal sex (which really isn't that funny. I had a friend that fucked a dog once, and it was the most disgusting thing I've ever filmed.) S&M, B&D, anal sex, kinky sex, anal sex, phone sex and anal sex. I've been accused of being fixated at the anal stage. That's not true! The people who say that are just envious assholes who don't know shit from Shinola. By the way, it's easy to spot these people. Their shoes stink.

But I'm not the only one who talks about sex. What about Dr. Ruth? This woman appears on Carson, Letterman, Donahue and Merv. She can say penis, masturbate, vagina, semen and intercourse on television. As a comic I would never be allowed to use those same words. Why? Because I'm funny, and sex isn't supposed to be funny.

And what makes her a sex authority? A Ph.D.? I just can't believe that she knows more about men jacking off than I do. I have two strong hands and a dick. That's all the diploma I need. A hard-on doesn't require references. Besides, how can you take a woman who looks like Robert Blake seriously? (Only kidding, Bob.) The only time she gets fucked is if her paycheck doesn't clear. I'm sure that never happens, because she's very popular. Why? She talks about sex, and people love to hear about sex.

I watched her on TV once. She said a lot of men suffer from premature ejaculation. That's not true . . . women suffer! There is no such thing as premature ejaculation. When it's time, it's time. Anyway, I've had it a few times, and I did not feel like I was suffering. Luckily, there is hope for quick shooters. It's called the squeeze technique. The way it works is, just when the man is ready to come, his partner grabs his dick and squeezes as hard as possible. You will definitely not have an orgasm . . . ever again!

Phil Donahue can devote an entire show to artificial insemination, couples searching for the right sperm donor or surrogate mothers. But I couldn't go on his show and talk about donating sperm to sperm banks unless there were tax benefits. Actually, there are people who make a living donating to sperm banks. And to think, last year I let $500 to $600 slip through my fingers.

Phil has had porn stars, lesbian stuntmen, hermaphrodites (people who are equipped for both the ins and outs of sex) and the ever-popular woman trapped in a man's body. There's something I'm sure Phil can relate to. (Don't hit me, Phil.) I personally don't buy the "trapped in a man's body" routine. Why don't they just say that they like to suck cock?

James Bond can say Pussy Galore, but I can't say Dick McPlenty. They can spell relief R-o-l-a-i-d-s, but I can't spell it f-a-r-t. While we're on that subject, why do people say, "Excuse me," after they fart? Wouldn't it be better if they said, "Look out!" before they did it? I had such an embarrassing thing happen to me. I thought I was having an appendicitis attack. I decided to go to the hospital. A doctor came in and pushed on my stomach. Gas shot out, and the pain went away. So, it cost $75 to fart in the emergency room.

Don't get me wrong, folks. I know you can't say fuck on television. You can fuck someone to get on, but you can't say it. That's okay by me. TV should be censored to a certain degree. Otherwise your kids could turn on the set and see some lady telling them it was healthy to masturbate. (Only kidding, Ruth). My father told me that jacking off could make me go blind. Then he walked into a wall. Dr. Ruth can tell you that it's okay to masturbate, but I can't say, "Go fuck yourself." Isn't it the same thing?

I believe people go to nightclubs to see what they don't see on TV. People pay a lot of money for live entertainment. It's real, not make-believe like the tube.

I grew up with television. My heroes were Batman and Superman. Now that I'm older, I've recognized the sexual undertones of these shows.

I've come to the conclusion that Batman was a homosexual. A man in his 30s living with a 15-year-old boy. Always going in the closet together, wearing leather hoods, cruising the boulevard in the Batmobile. Now I know what he meant by "to the Batpole," and why Robin is the "Boy Wonder."

What kind of kids' show is that? What's the message? That any chicken hawk with a leather fetish and cold, hard cash can buy (I mean adopt) a young boy in Gotham City? (Only kidding, Adam.)

Superman. A guy that was more powerful than a locomotive, able to leap tall buildings in a single bound. He could see through anything, including Lois Lane. She always wanted to fuck him. But he didn't want to. He knew that she thought Clark was an asshole. So why would he give her the superdick? He was Clark. Besides, if he was so great, what did "faster than a speeding bullet" mean? Superman was a weirdo who got off on undressing in closets and phone booths.

Sex is everywhere on television. Commercials are probably the biggest pimps of all. Almost every product deals with sex. From toothpaste to air filters, commercials practically promise you'll get laid if you use their product. You will, but the correct term is fucked.

Recently, I went to a 7-Eleven convenience store to pick up a few magazines. They stopped selling HUSTLER and Penthouse. Too bad. I wonder how many of their customers were like me. Go in to buy a magazine and wind up leaving with a six-pack and snacks.

If people who read HUSTLER or Penthouse magazines become sex offenders or rapists, what happens to those who read Car and Driver? Do they become speed demons or car thieves?

Yes, some magazines can have an effect on you. My wife read Cosmopolitan, and she became an asshole. Cosmo has more weird articles on sex than any other publication. Little tests to see if your husband lives up to "their" standards, or how to cheat on your spouse and make him think it's his fault.

My wife and I split up because of Cosmo. They published an article about the G spot. A spot on the woman's body that could produce the most unbelievable orgasm. (If my wife had an orgasm, it would be unbelievable.) This orgasm could last 30 minutes. Great! What does the guy do for 30 minutes? Go to the store, buy a six-pack, some cigarettes, come home, and she's not done yet?

She told me of a book about how to find the G spot. I went to a bookstore. I couldn't even find the fucking book! And I didn't want to ask where it was. (The clerk would have probably said, "I think that's in the little-dick section.") So my wife bought me the book. There were no pictures, maps or diagrams. It just said it was about two-thirds of the way in. Great. Compared to who? What if John Holmes wrote the book? I'd be lucky if I could find the B spot.

So I took my wife to a marriage counselor. He fucked her. He told me to take my wife to an adult-toy store, buy some marital aids, go home and explore each other's bodies. It would broaden our sex lives. My wife found a vibrator that took 20 D-cell batteries. That isn't exploring; it's more like offshore drilling! You could jump-start your fucking car with this thing. One night I wanted to stick it up her ass. She said, "Let me do you first." I didn't like it. I don't even like rectal thermometers. Who invented them? "Mommy, I don't feel good."

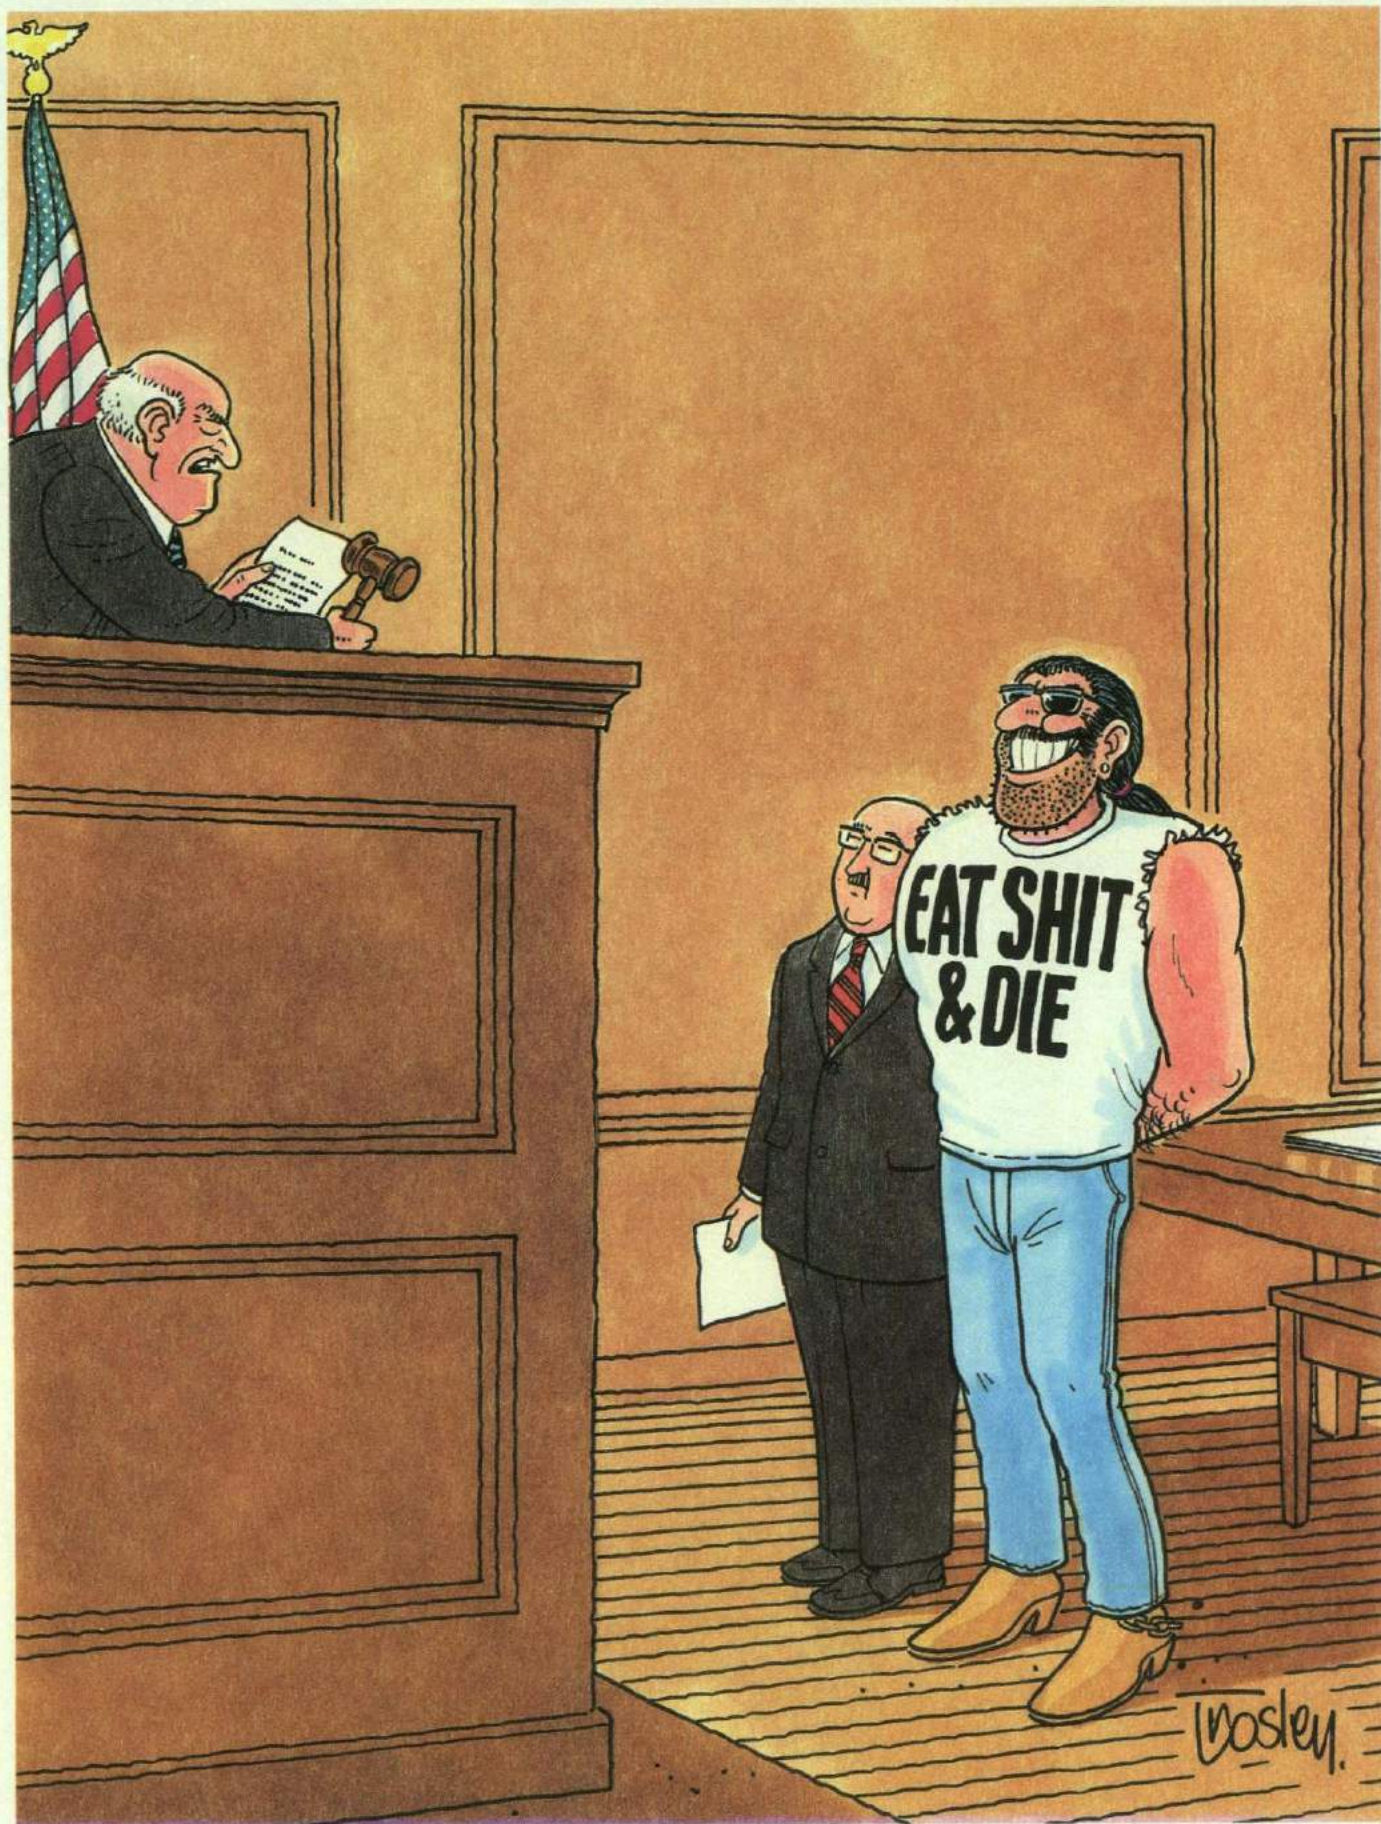

"Come here, Son, let me stick this glass rod up your ass. Now how do you feel?"

I talk about sex because that's what I do best. Talk about it. Sex can be a beautiful and rewarding experience. And with a partner it's even better!

Of course, I use certain slang terms when I talk about sex. I don't want to sound like a surgeon. Some comedians are great political satirists; others are great prop comics. I do what I do best.

Certain topics can be offensive. Child abuse, rape and cancer. You can see all of these on television.

My goal isn't to shock or offend anyone with my material. If you are shocked or offended with my act, that's your privilege. I wouldn't think anything less of you. But when a nightclub owner decides what I can say, and what you can hear, he's robbing you of your free right to decide for yourself what's right for you.

I do agree that certain topics can be offensive. Child abuse, rape and cancer. You can see all of these on television. Some people go out to nightclubs to get away from all of that.

When I'm not on the road, I reside in West Hollywood. It's actually Los Angeles, but West Hollywood sounds better. There are a lot of comedy clubs there, but a lot of problems too.

Contrary to popular belief, the major clubs in Los Angeles and New York will not let you get onstage unless you have a developed act. Some clubs have a token amateur night, where anyone who thinks they're funny can camp out in line for a few weeks hoping to get onstage for five minutes. It's easier to get Super Bowl tickets than to get onstage.

If you do get onstage, play your politics right and become a regular at one of these clubs. They pay a whopping $25 a night, with the chance of being discovered. I went that route and soon found out that I owed my landlord five months back rent.

One night I was onstage at a hot spot for talent scouts. I did a joke about a product called Mr. Big Cream. Just rub it on your dick . . . and it gets bigger. Well, if it worked, then wouldn't your hands get bigger too? It got big laughs.

That joke got me kicked out for a year. The owner was really furious. And while I was being reprimanded, Robin Williams was out there onstage saying "fuck." He didn't get yelled at. I asked the owner why he could use those words onstage and I couldn't. She said it was because he was famous.

If the word fuck is so offensive, what difference does it make who says it? In other words, it's okay to say "fuck" if you're a celebrity, or if you're not talking about sex.

I've run into this snag many times. When I began doing standup comedy, I was constantly warned that I'd never get anywhere if I worked blue. If you ever run into George Carlin, Eddie Murphy, Richard Pryor, Buddy Hackett or even Wayland Flowers and Madam, remind them that they didn't get anywhere. Oh, I forgot . . . they're celebrities. Others will tell you that these guys started out clean, then did the other material once they made it. My argument's the same. If it's dirty, it's dirty no matter what.

That Mr. Big Cream joke cost me lots of opportunities to be discovered. It doesn't help your reputation when you get kicked out of a club for being obscene. But I got even. A year later I walked in, gave the club owner flowers (she's a sucker for flowers), apologized and told her that I'd learned my lesson. I begged her to give me one more chance. She managed to stop drinking for a minute and agreed. I went onstage and opened with, "When do people decide they're going to be gay? Are you just walking along, stop and say, 'You know, I think I'd like a dick up my ass!'"

The crowd screamed. The other comics in the room were howling. I got a standing ovation. I also got kicked out forever. (By the way, I've done that same joke in front of a predominantly gay crowd, and they were not offended.)

Sex is all around us. On television, billboards, radio and magazines. If you're not thinking about it, you're either doing it, just did it, about to do it, fantasizing about it or recovering from it. It's okay, as long as you don't laugh about it.

People love sex. They love to hear about it. They like to know that other people think and do the same things.

I went out with a girl once who insisted that I let her stick a knotted rag up my ass. She said it was called the Japanese Love Knots. Believe me, after you try this, you won't love the Japanese. She said that just when I was about to come, she'd yank it out, and it would be like the Fourth of July. Well, I don't know about you, but when it comes to my ass, I don't like the word yank right off the bat! That kills it for me right there. Especially when I see her taking the rag out of the trunk of her car. I refused the rag; so she suggested we use a string of beads instead. Who does she think she is, Monty Hall? But I figured you only go around once in this crazy world; so what the fuck? A few hours later I was in the emergency room, having the beads removed. She was right though. When the doctor pulled the string, I came like a motherfucker!

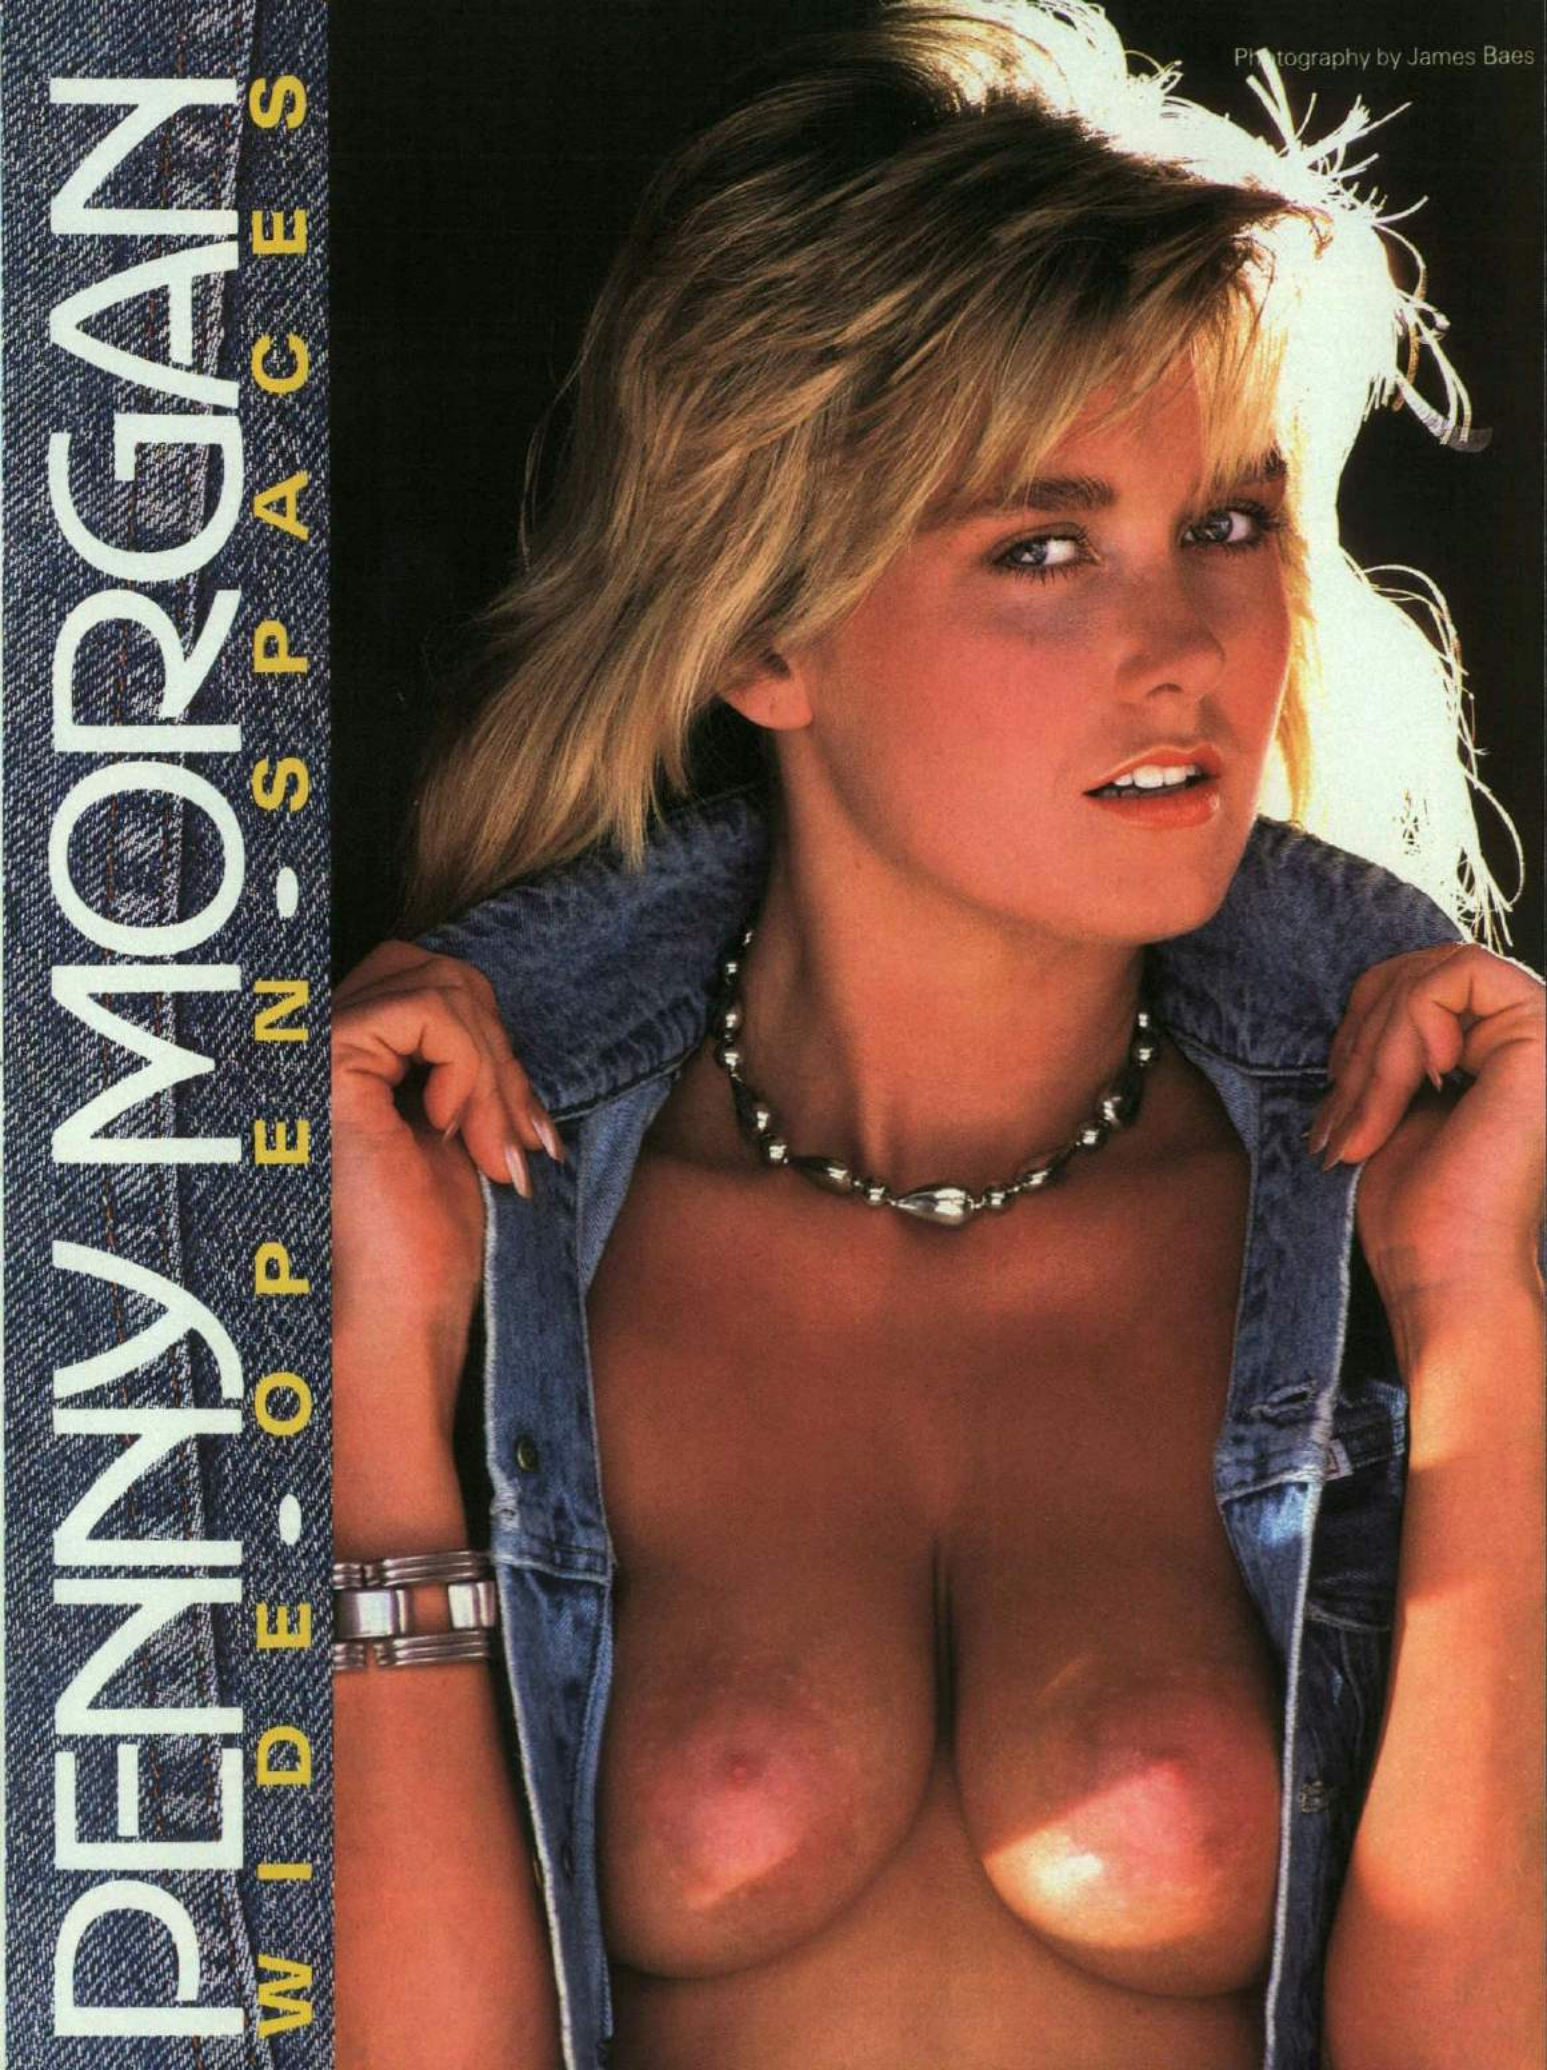

I perform in clubs across the country. Some are great; others suck. But it's never the fault of the audience. It's because of the management.

In Houston, Texas, there's a club called the Laff Stop. The first night the marquee

The Pope and the archbishop were talking, and the archbishop happened to mention that he had heard a good joke the day before. The Pope said, "Oh, I like jokes—let me hear it."

The archbishop said, "Okay, this is a good one! There were two Polacks walking down the street, and—"

Immediately the Pope interrupted him. "Excuse me, but are you aware of the fact that I happen to be Polish?" he asked.

The archbishop was shocked. "Oh, my gosh," he said, "that's right! I'm really sorry." The archbishop then said very slowly, "There . . . were . . . two . . . Polacks . . . walking . . . down . . . the . . . street . . ."

A busy executive stopped by his doctor's office for a checkup on his lunch break. The office was crowded, and the executive had to wait almost an hour. The doctor finally saw him and gave him a quick examination. "You look fine," he said, "but in order to be sure, I'll need samples of your urine, feces and sperm."

Glancing at his watch, the busy executive responded, "I'm kind of in a hurry, doc. How about if I just leave you my underwear?"

Every newspaper in Chicago had a reporter and photographer at the office of a prominent eye doctor. It seemed the ophthalmologist had recently performed a successful sight-saving operation on the wife of a famous painter. In addition to paying the specialist his usual fee, the artist had insisted on painting one wall of the doctor's waiting room. The subject of the mural was an immense, multicolored human eye, in the center of which stood a perfect miniature likeness of the good doctor himself. While cameras clicked and the newsmen crowded around the famous artist for his comments, one reporter took the eye doctor aside.

"What was your first reaction," he asked the M.D., "on seeing this fantastic human eye covering an entire wall of your office?"

"To be honest," replied the doctor, "I was glad I'm not a gynecologist!"

A cab driver saw a woman hailing him at 39th St. and 11th Ave. He pulled over and was surprised when she got in and sat down beside him on the front seat. She told him her address, and they drove off. When they arrived at her destination, the cab driver pulled over and shut off the meter. "Okay," he said, "that will be $4.60, please."

The woman looked over and said to him, "I don't have any money," pulling her skirt up to her waist, "but maybe this will take care of it."

The cabbie looked down and said, "Gee, lady, don't you have anything smaller?"

Then the teacher asked little Leroy, "What does the pig say, Leroy?"

Leroy thought, then said, "Freeze, nigger!"

An American, a German and a Russian were talking about their traveling habits. The American said, "Well, when I'm at home, I'm satisfied with my Chevy. But when I travel abroad, I must show off in a Cadillac."

Then the Russian added dryly, "As for my nation, in our homeland we are pretty satisfied with our Volgas. And as for the trips to foreign countries, we usually travel in tanks."

When Sister Rose came to tell the Mother Superior that she had sinned with a man and wished to do penance so she could be forgiven, the Mother Superior began packing a suitcase. "Oh, please, don't put me out!" cried the young nun. "Where will I go?"

"I'm not putting you out," said the Mother Superior. "It's me that's leaving. For 30 years here it's been nothing but screwing and forgiving. From now on I'm through with doing the forgiving, and I'm going to get in on some of the screwing before it's too late!"

DRUG TESTING

THE COMING OF THE BRAIN POLICE

It sounds insane, but on October 28, 1986, President Reagan signed a bill that will make urine a major industry in the United States. Thousands of Americans will spend 40 hours a week watching other people piss into plastic cups.

There will be tens of thousands of urine takers, urine watchers, urine testers, urine cops, urine lawyers and expert medical witnesses specializing in urine, not to mention the urine-cup makers, urine-test makers and the printers of urine-lab test forms. Undoubtedly, community colleges and vocational schools will soon be giving courses in urine watching, gathering, testing, and offering two-year programs with a degree in urine.

This would be funny if it wasn't part of a larger trend toward random searches of all kinds. If you've been laughing about it, laugh while you can; the odds are that you are going to be its next victim. Mere innocence will not protect you.

DRUG TESTING

The chances of proving your innocence once you have tested positive are practically nonexistent.

If you like a few beers after work, if you smoke cigarettes, if you've ever shared a joint or snorted a line of coke at some weekend party, if you take any recreational drug at all, you could lose your job.

If there's anything in your sex life that couldn't be described on prime-time television, if there's anything in your finances you wouldn't want the IRS to see, if there's anything at all in your private life you would not want made public, in fact, even if you're one of the tiny minority who uses no drugs and leads a saintly life, there's still a chance you could get fired.

The routine use of urinalysis and lie detectors to test workers and job applicants is fast becoming a way of life. More than a quarter of the Fortune 500 companies, including such giants as IBM, General Motors, American Airlines and DuPont, test employees or prospective employees for drug use. At least half are expected to do so by 1988, and the National Football League, the National Hockey League and the National Basketball Association are expected to follow baseball's example and set up centralized drug-testing programs within the next few years.

Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth recently suspended seven players, allowing them to play only after they paid a fine of 10% of their salaries for admitted drug use. Things are much tougher in more commonplace businesses, where employees are easier to replace than superstar athletes. A quarter of the companies in a recent poll admitted that they would fire any employees who tested positive.

Those are ominous statistics, considering that almost a third of all workers tested at a Connecticut steel mill registered positive for illegal drugs. If alcohol and nicotine had been included, the plant would probably have had to fire its entire work force and start over.

The really frightening statistic is that, according to one study performed for the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), in some labs two-thirds of the tests were wrong!

If the President's Commission on Organized Crime has its way, not only all federal employees, but anyone working for the more than 15,000 companies who do business with the government will be routinely tested for drug use. Combined with the drug-testing programs already in place, millions of American workers could be tested for drug use within the next year. Even if the drug-testing companies estimate of 97% accuracy is accepted, thousands of innocent workers will be falsely accused of drug use.

If the Connecticut statistics hold true for other companies, millions of Americans will test positive and risk losing their jobs, whether they use drugs at work or not. In the case of marijuana, they will test positive even if they have stopped using the drug as much as six weeks earlier, and even if they have simply been in the same room where it was being smoked.

None of the Constitutional guarantees against unreasonable search and seizure or against self-incrimination will protect them. Persons testing positive could be fired or forced to enter treatment programs.

At press time, U.S. District Judge Robert F. Collins has ruled that the U.S. Customs Service's drug-testing program is an unconstitutional violation of rights of privacy and of protections against unreasonable search and seizure and self-incrimination. It remains for the government agency to appeal this decision, which could take the issue all the way to the Supreme Court, a legal body that tends to have a pronounced Reagan Administration bias. Even if the High Court does uphold the right of federal employees to urine privacy, this ruling might not apply to piss-curious employers in the private sector. Activists for whiz freedom point out that, while they may in fact financially support it, most Americans do not work for the federal government.

The chances of proving your innocence once you have tested positive are practically nonexistent, as Juanita M. Jones, a 49-year-old grandmother of four, discovered. Ms. Jones, a school-bus aide, tested positive for marijuana use during mass urinalysis testing of all school-transportation workers in the District of Columbia. She denied using the drug and produced two negative urinalysis tests of her own to prove her innocence. She was fired anyway.

Most test manufacturers advise the use of a second test, costing $50 to $75, to confirm initial positive results on the $20 screening tests. But managers, anxious to save money, generally ignore the advice. Some even use "do it yourself" tests that are even more unreliable than the professional tests.

The professional labs are bad enough. In one CDC study some professional labs were wrong 100% of the time, and gave

DRUG TESTING

Even accurate urinalysis can demonstrate only that a person has used drugs, not that they used them on the job.

results that would have incriminated innocent people two-thirds of the time.

The reason for the large number of errors is the test itself. The most commonly used test, the thin layer chromatography (TLC) test, is intended as a screening procedure and is conclusive only when the results are negative. If the test is positive, it should be confirmed by another test, the gas chromatography/mass spectrometer test, (GC/MS), which can be 100% accurate for some drugs.

In the TLC test, drug residues in urine move different distances along a lab plate and turn different colors. Cocaine, for example, migrates farthest from the source, while morphine is one of the weakest travelers. However, some drugs such as Darvon and cocaine tend to travel almost the same distance and can lead to a legitimate prescription drug being misidentified as an illegal drug.

In addition, the colors the drug residues turn are very difficult to identify. According to Dr. Mohammed Abdel-Rahman, Director of Toxicology at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, "The colors can be very confusing." Only highly trained and experienced lab technicians can recognize the subtle differences between some of the shadings, which tend to run together and cause misidentifications.

Herbal tea and prescription drugs can trigger false positive results and, according to Dr. John Morgan, professor of biomedical education at CCNY, about 95% of the positive results for amphetamines are due to the misidentification of over-the-counter nasal decongestants.

An even more insidious misidentification occurs in testing for marijuana use. Dr. James Woodford, an Atlanta forensic chemist, claims melanin, which is responsible for the darkness of skin pigment, can break down in urine into a chemical substance that is easily mistaken for the chemical that indicates marijuana use. As a result, people with dark skin run a higher risk than those with light skin of being wrongly accused of having used marijuana.

They are not the only people who have suffered from false test results. In 1984 the Army notified at least 60,000 soldiers that their positive drug tests may have been wrong because their urine specimens had been mislabeled or contaminated. More than 9,000 soldiers were dishonorably discharged by the Army before the mix-ups were discovered.

Most of the falsely accused are less fortunate. They either have no money to fight the injustice done to them, or they are only job applicants and have no legal grounds to sue, since being refused a job—for any reason—doesn't deprive them of something they already had.

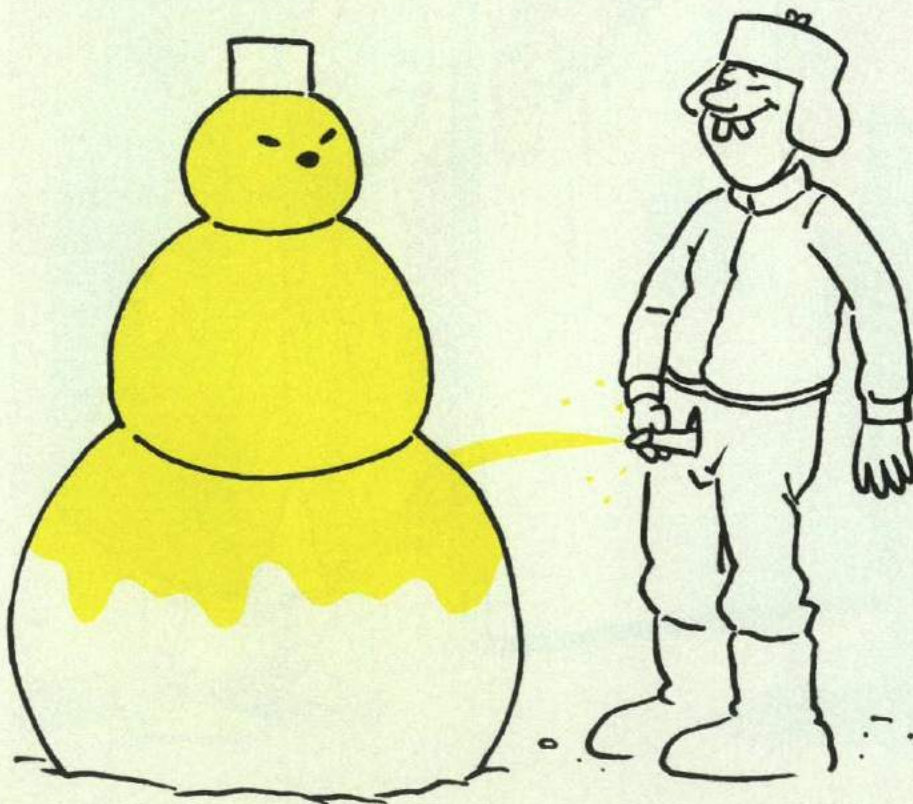

Motivations for drug testing vary. According to Dupont's vice president of safety, health and environmental affairs, Dr. Bruce W. Karrh, "DuPont has an obligation to provide a safe and healthy workplace. The intent is not to terminate people; the intent is to get them into treatment."

Altruistic motives notwithstanding, Chicago labor lawyer Mark Juster's assessment may be more to the point. "If you've got a drug or alcohol problem in your factory," Juster says, "it's a good bet you're losing money." The loss of money through absenteeism, accidents and decreased productivity is a major motivator for drug testing, according to Peter B. Bensinger, former director of the Drug Enforcement Administration. Said Bensinger, "If somebody smokes pot on a Saturday night, it's the employer's business Monday morning. It's the company's problem if its absentee rate is 2½ times higher, its accident rate is three times higher, and the medical costs are out of sight."

Drug testing seems like an easy way to solve these problems; except that the tests measure not what was done Saturday night, but what may have been done days or weeks before. The chemical residues of cocaine, heroin and PCP are still present in the urine three to four days after use. Marijuana, which stays in the body's fat cells, can be detected up to six weeks after use. Even accurate urinalysis can demonstrate only that a person has used one of these drugs, not that they used them on the job.

A more accurate way of determining on-the-job drug use is the Alcohol Drug Motosensory Impairment Machine. The ADMIT machine, invented by Dr. S. Thomas Westerman, a New Jersey ear, nose and throat doctor, measures brain waves to determine if the employee is under the influence of alcohol, marijuana, cocaine, diazepam, barbiturates or opiates, or any combination of these drugs. If any testing is to be done, the ADMIT machine is probably the best method. It is accurate; nobody has to follow anybody into the toilet; it is not painful like a blood test; there are no samples to be mishandled or mislabeled; and it does not test what the employee did on his weekend, only if he is under the influence of drugs at the moment. Moreover, it is inexpensive at $7 per test, and its results are immediate.

If the company you work for can keep you from having a cigarette on your break, no part of your private life is safe.

The big problem with the ADMIT machine is that it will encourage even more drug testing, which is in violation of the Constitutional guarantee against being subjected to unreasonable search and seizure.

The founding fathers were familiar with the occupational paranoia of cops, and made it illegal to search everybody who comes along on the off chance that one of them has something to hide. "Drug testing," according to the Ohio ACLU's associate director, Mark Levy, "throws a dragnet over a vast number of innocent people, under the guise that a few who are not innocent will be found out."

In addition, random drug testing violates two basic principles of American law. The first is the assumption that you are innocent until proven guilty.

Moreover, random drug testing not only assumes that you are guilty until you take a test to prove your innocence, it requires that you give evidence against yourself if you are guilty, something even traitors, ax murderers and child molesters are not required to do.

On the surface it appears that the Constitutional guarantee against self-incrimination is being violated by every business conducting random drug tests. For example, when the Nicor Drilling Company of Wheatland, Oklahoma, fired three of its 200 workers for refusing to take drug tests, it would seem to have violated their rights against self-incrimination.

Yet it did nothing illegal. According to Douglas Laycock, associate dean of the University of Texas law school, "With a couple of exceptions, the Constitution regulates what the government can do; it doesn't regulate what private citizens can do. A private employer can impose whatever requirements he can get away with."

These legal invasions of privacy have no limit. Illegal drugs are not the only drugs that could get you fired. Alcoholism causes more absenteeism, higher medical bills and poorer work quality than any other ailment.

Alcoholics make up 10% to 15% of the work force. The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that addicted workers lose a quarter of their productivity and cost employers 25% of their annual salary in absenteeism, sick leave, accidents, and health and disability payments.

The extra 50% the employer of sober workers gets in reduced costs and increased productivity is pure profit. Since Constitutional protections apparently stop at the plant gate, employers are not likely to be any more lenient with employees who drink and work than the state is with citizens who drink and drive.

Nor are you likely to be treated any fairer if you are addicted to what the National Institute on Drug Abuse ranks as the most lethal and addictive of all drugs—nicotine.

Since 25% of all deaths are directly related to smoking, while only 5% are related to alcohol and 1% or 2% to the abuse of other addictive substances, an all-out attack on smoking can be expected in the workplace. It has already begun in military offices, barracks, vehicles and aircraft. The reasons sound remarkably like what has been said about the dangers of illegal drugs. "Smoking tobacco," according to the Department of the Army, "harms readiness by impairing physical fitness and by increasing illness, absenteeism, premature death and health-care costs."

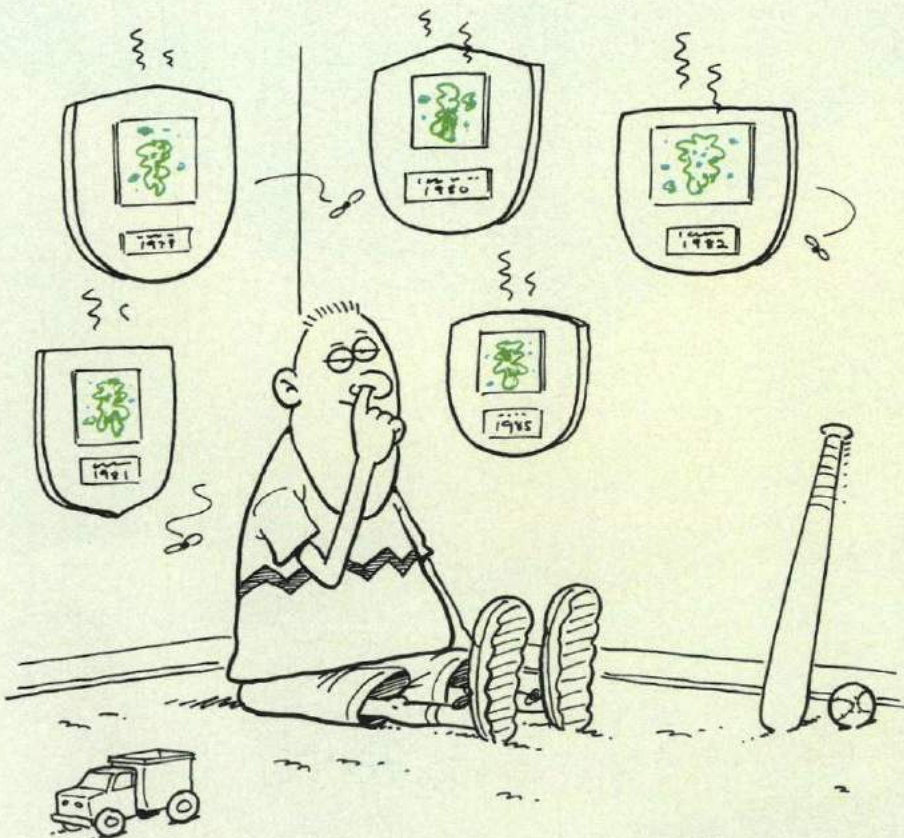

If the company you work for can keep you from having a cigarette on your break or a few too many beers after work, no part of your private life is safe.

Corporations are already testing workers for exposure to the AIDS virus, and other venereal diseases may become cause for firing. Companies have already fired workers for their sex lives. In November, 1981, the United Parcel Service fired Jon Slohoda on the grounds that he was committing adultery because he was living with a female co-worker while separated from his wife.

By extension, any of your recreations could become the concern of your employer. Employee theft costs companies more a year than drugs do, and unsuccessful gambling certainly gives an employee a motive to steal, give away trade secrets or sabotage production. Faced with such threats in the past, many corporations have turned to the use of a technology that almost makes drug testing look practical—the polygraph.

Two million people a year are given polygraph tests, and 98% of them, according to psychologist Benjamin Kleinmuntz of the University of Illinois at Chicago, are given by private companies to employees or prospective employees. The number of employment polygraph examinations has tripled in the past ten years.

There is evidence that the polygraph's

chief use is to intimidate people into confessing. As Boston University psychology professor Leonard Saxe, who investigated polygraphs for the Office of Technology Assessment, said, "A good examiner scares the crap out of you. It's theater."

The polygraph is even more inaccurate than urinalysis. Dr. John H. Gibbons, director of the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, said after his study of the polygraph, "The instrument does not detect deceptions. It's more of a fear detector than a lie detector." John F. Beary, who conducted a Pentagon study of the polygraph, found that it called truthful people liars more than half the time.

The government's claim that the test is 98% accurate is based on what has got to be the world record for guillibility. The figures came from a study of questionnaires sent to polygraphers in Virginia, asking them how many of the tests they gave in the past year turned out to be correct. Nobody at the Pentagon, of course, considered subjecting the polygraphers to a lie detector test.

Nor is the polygraph the worst of the assaults on worker privacy. Companies have set up hidden video cameras, searched lockers and cars, frisked workers on their way into work, hired undercover agents to pose as workers and even threatened to use dope-sniffing dogs.

Now U.S. Attorney Thomas Greelish wants the government to have access to your personal banking records on the grounds that the public has the right to be protected against drug users. The hysteria surrounding the use of drugs in America is so intense that the Marlboro Township, New Jersey, school board proposed the adoption of a procedure for conducting strip-searches of kindergarten children. Chances are your employer is caught up in that same hysteria.

If he is, the cup's smaller than it looks; so try not to piss on your fingers.

HOW TO BEAT THE DRUG TEST AND WHAT TO DO IF YOU DON'T

The first thing to do is to find out as much as you can about your situation. Ask if you will be fired if you refuse to take the test. Find out whether your union or another organized support group will back you with legal assistance if you refuse and are fired. Find out what type of test is going to be used and whether a secondary test will be used to confirm the first. Find out if your company fires employees who test positive or if, like many companies, it has a rehabilitation program.

If you are one of the millions who use drugs regularly and you are sure you'll fail the test, there are a few things you can do. If you are going to be fired anyway, refuse the test and take your case to the American Civil Liberties Union. They are strongly opposed to random drug testing, but that doesn't mean they'll take your particular case. If your company has a rehabilitation program and doesn't fire first offenders, take the test.

If you take the test, there are a few things you can do to pass it, but none are foolproof. Most tests are far more likely to see drugs that aren't there than to miss drugs that are. To get a false negative for a marijuana test, it may help to drink lots of water the day before urinalysis. Empty the bladder early on the day of the test and fill the bladder again at least an hour before the test. Drinking diluted vinegar may help to speed up the body's elimination of cocaine.

If that doesn't work, your best bet is to contaminate the sample so the test results will be ambiguous and you can challenge their validity in court. The best legal issues are not the Constitutional ones, but challenges based on contamination or misidentification of the sample, the set of standards used in the test, the efficiency of the equipment and the competence of the testers.

The easiest way to contaminate the sample is to add salt to it, including sweat. A sliver of soap deposited underneath the fingernail and held in the stream of urine may contaminate the sample enough to disqualify it. Foreign substances in the sample will give a lawyer an opening to challenge the test results.

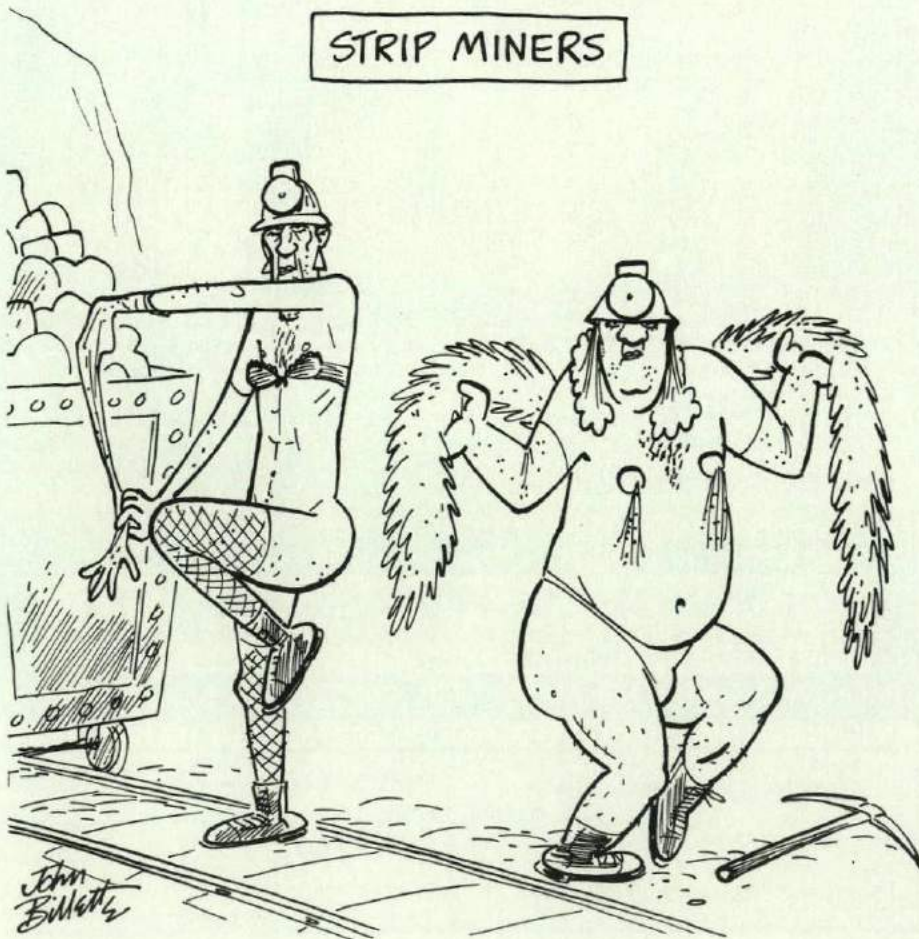

The best way to beat a drug test is not to have to take it. Your best defense is your union, if you have one. Make sure that a clause allowing random drug testing is not included in your contract or any future contract. If your union leaders feel drug testing is negotiable, encourage them to make sure that it's not random and that it leads to a rehabilitation program and not firing.

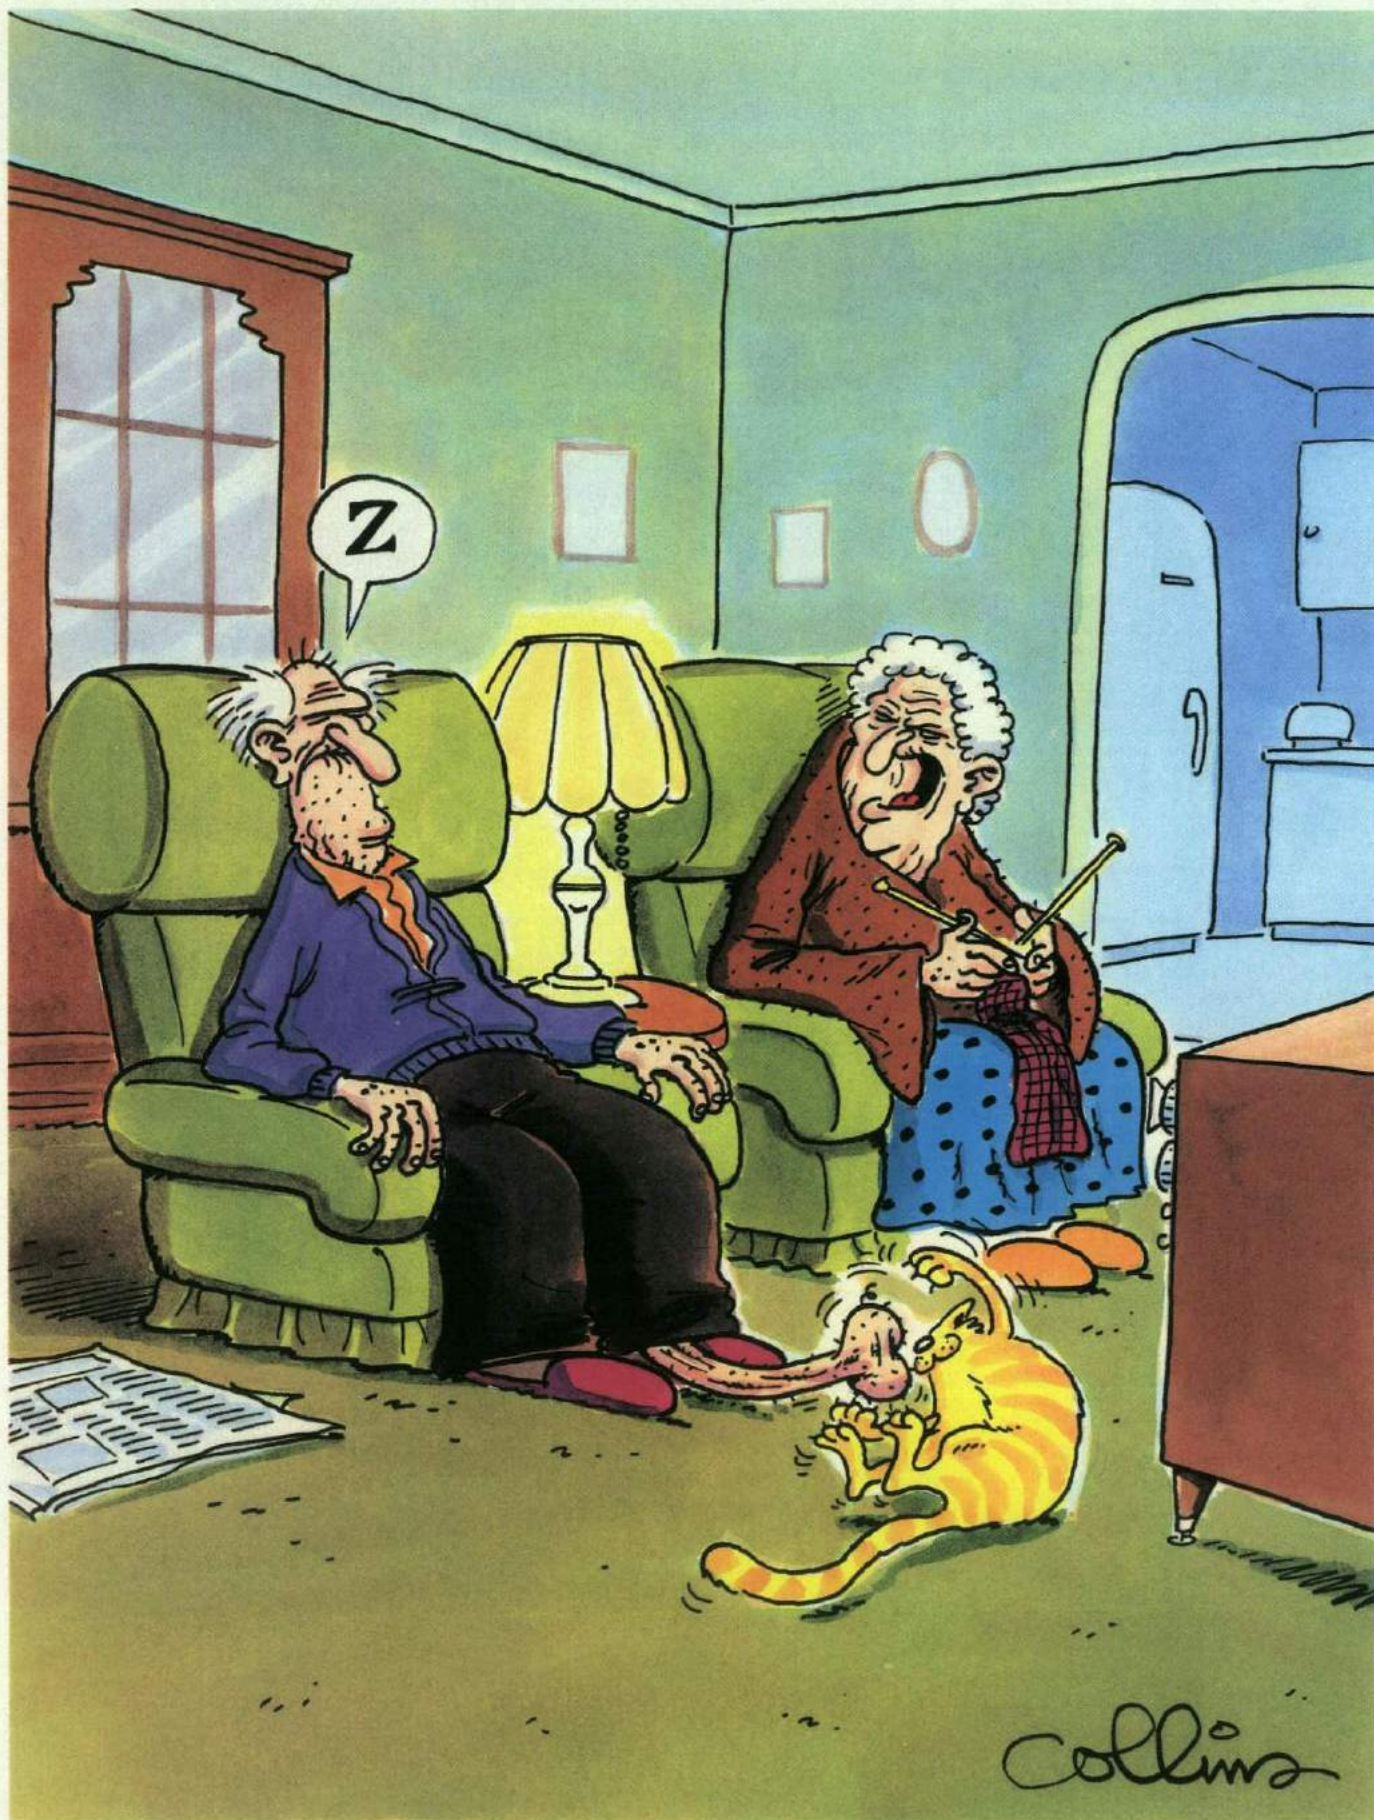

Your local legislator is another source of prevention. Oregon, Maine, Maryland and California are considering legislation to restrict or eliminate drug testing by private industry. Voice your opinion to your state legislator.

Letters to congressmen could also have an impact, especially to Representative Don Edwards (Democrat, California), Chairman of the Subcommittee on Civil and Constitutional Rights. Stress the issue of unreasonable search and ask what you can do to help prevent random drug testing. This will encourage your representatives to respond specifically to your letter. Have the letter typed if at all possible; the most reasoned argument in the world has little impact if it's written in crayon on yellow paper with wide lines.

get around. In order to come to terms with our own sexuality, often in order to experience it, many of us talk and play with a wide variety of people, read widely in search of 'explanations' for S&M and get to know more about the range of human potential than an average person might. Without being anywhere near perfect, many S&M people do learn to be polite about differences." We figure out that we must respect others before asking them to respect us.

Another objection to S&M is that it promotes battering. Marissa Jonel, a former practicing masochist, describes an abusive relationship in which her lover used S&M as a cover for beating her. "After a couple of years I could not shake that label [of masochist], and all the subsequent abuses in my relationship were brushed off by friends with statements like, 'Well, she's into it.'"

I know that problem all too well. A former lover beat me and threatened to kill me, assuring me that "you know you want it, bitch." (Hardly. I couldn't trust him enough to play S&M games with him.) An acquaintance hunted down his ex-wife and bashed her head in, then had the nerve to call his assault S&M. Worse, his friends believed it. But banning S&M isn't the solution. Rather, we should educate people about what it really is—a consensual activity—so that batterers can't get away with using masochism as an excuse for violence.

Speaking of consent, the most irritating objection to women practicing S&M is that we're not really capable of choice. "Since our sexuality has been for the most part constructed through social structures over which we had no control, we all 'consent' to sexual desires and activities which are alienating," writes Karen Rian in Against Sadomasochism. Leaving aside the point that S&M doesn't seem "alienating" to me, I find it difficult to swallow the thesis that women are conditioned to be masochistic. Masochistic women are rare in the leather underworld—so rare that many sadistic men must opt for homosexual contact or forget about finding a partner. Any brainwashing has been directed the other way: Society tries to scare women away from their own sexuality with words like slut, nympho, lezzie and pervert. Apparently, in a lot of cases, it works.

What about safety? Rosemarie Santini believes masochists are at least "slightly suicidal." Again, there's no evidence for this idea. S&M books, workshops and players all stress the importance of safety and trust.

* * *

Paul and I are in master/slave drag at a party thrown by a club composed mostly of the fans of science-fiction writer John Norman. Since we're anything but impressed by his sexist distortion of S&M themes, I was puzzled by how insistently the members asked us to attend. There are few women, and the only one in costume is dressed as a dominatrix. Many of these men have confided to me about the difficulty of finding dates, much less sex partners.

The guys crowd around us, asking if it's true that slaves do it with anyone. "Not this slave," says Paul, cool enough to make a joke of it. "She's mine." As the intelligence level of the replies sinks, I feel glad that I'm chained to Paul's belt.

Some S&M people create unnecessary trouble for themselves when they forget that they're playing a game. Sounding awfully like John Norman, lesbian-feminist Susan Farr suggests that S&M is a good way to blow off steam. "If I give Rae a whipping after she has had sex with someone else, it ... expresses directly how angry and jealous I feel," she says. That's psychological dynamite. A man beating his wife for denting a fender is also expressing his anger. Both are battering, not playing; beating people isn't an acceptable alternative to working things through with them. To avoid crossing a line that could injure a lover or a relationship, wise S&M people never play when they're angry.

Blowing off steam isn't what S&M is about any more than catharsis is what art's about. They are about getting out of your head for a while, taking a break from being you. When pacifist Paul wields a whip, he's on vacation from himself. So is militant me when I lie back in chains. The fun would be spoiled if we insisted on dragging along the baggage of our own anger.

"That seems so unnatural," says a friend who can't really understand, although she tries. It's supposed to be unnatural. It's drama, not life. Sex, not reproduction. I'm not doing this because cavemen dragged their wives by the hair a million years ago, something that modern anthropologists tell us didn't happen anyway. Nor am I doing this because women were born with a genetic need for submission. In nature, fucking is something that's fun for females, not something they submit to. I do this for pleasure. Period. 🐾

read: ROBERT SCHIMMEL, RATED-X. The next night there were two X's. Then three. By Friday night the marquee read: ROBERT SCHIMMEL, RATED-XXXX ADULT SHOW. I asked the owner, "What's the difference between three X's and four X's?"

He said, "You are."

The Laff Stop has a club in Newport Beach, California, too. They have never told me how to do my act. In fact, it was there that I was hired to do a cable special for the Playboy Channel (Sorry, Larry) entitled, The 1985 National Bad Taste Comedy Finals.

I also did a home video with Redd Foxx called, Dirty, Dirty Jokes. This project can also be indirectly credited to the people of the Laff Stop. I owe them a lot.

I recently worked in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. I had no idea what to expect. I was anticipating audiences like the ones in the movie Southern Comfort. I found out that the Cajuns have a sense of humor when it comes to sex. Actually, I found out what a Cajun blowjob is. After you come, they bite the head off and suck the insides out!

I worked in Beaumont, Texas. I knew I was in trouble when I landed at Buford Pusser Memorial Airport. The manager of the club looked exactly like Johnny Cash. And she was mean too. (Only kidding, Johnny.) Beaumont is the headquarters for some big white-supremacy group like the KKK. In other words, the audiences were very conservative. They laughed.

In Seattle, Washington, the people who distribute liquor licenses tried to ban profanity from nightclub stages. If the comics used four-letter words, clubs could lose their licenses.

As I write this article, the Supreme Court is in the news. They upheld a statute in Georgia prohibiting homosexual sex acts. That means in Georgia, anal sex and oral sex are illegal—unless you're in jail! Next thing you know, there'll be a breathalyzer test for blowjobs. That would spark some great new commercials like, "Here come the cops. Quick . . . give me a Certs!"

I don't consider sex dirty. So, to me, talking about sex isn't dirty. Tell Dr. Ruth not to talk about sex. Tell Larry Bird not to play basketball. Tell Hulk Hogan to give up wrestling. They'll all tell you the same thing: Fuck you.

I think I'm the best at what I do. That's the most anyone can ever hope for. If I can relate to people across the country and make them laugh and forget about their problems, I'm a success.

One night last year I was performing at the Improvisation in Los Angeles. After the show I was asked to do Star Search. At first I was apprehensive. I'm a working comedian. I didn't want to lose to some asshole busting eggs on his head. But when I heard everyone say I couldn't do it, I had to. I went on and won the first show. I proved to my peers that I could work completely clean if I had to. It was like pulling teeth.

I started getting offers from clubs that would never hire me before. I guess since they saw me as comedy champ on the show, they assumed I worked clean. I opened for Shields and Yarnell at the California State Polytechnic University. I had every intention of working clean. I knew that about a third of their audience were children. They go for that mime shit. (Only kidding, Marcel.)

Right before I went onstage, I was told, "No cursing, no sex jokes, no drug jokes, no political stuff and no racial humor." I asked myself what was left? Oh, yeah. Mime.

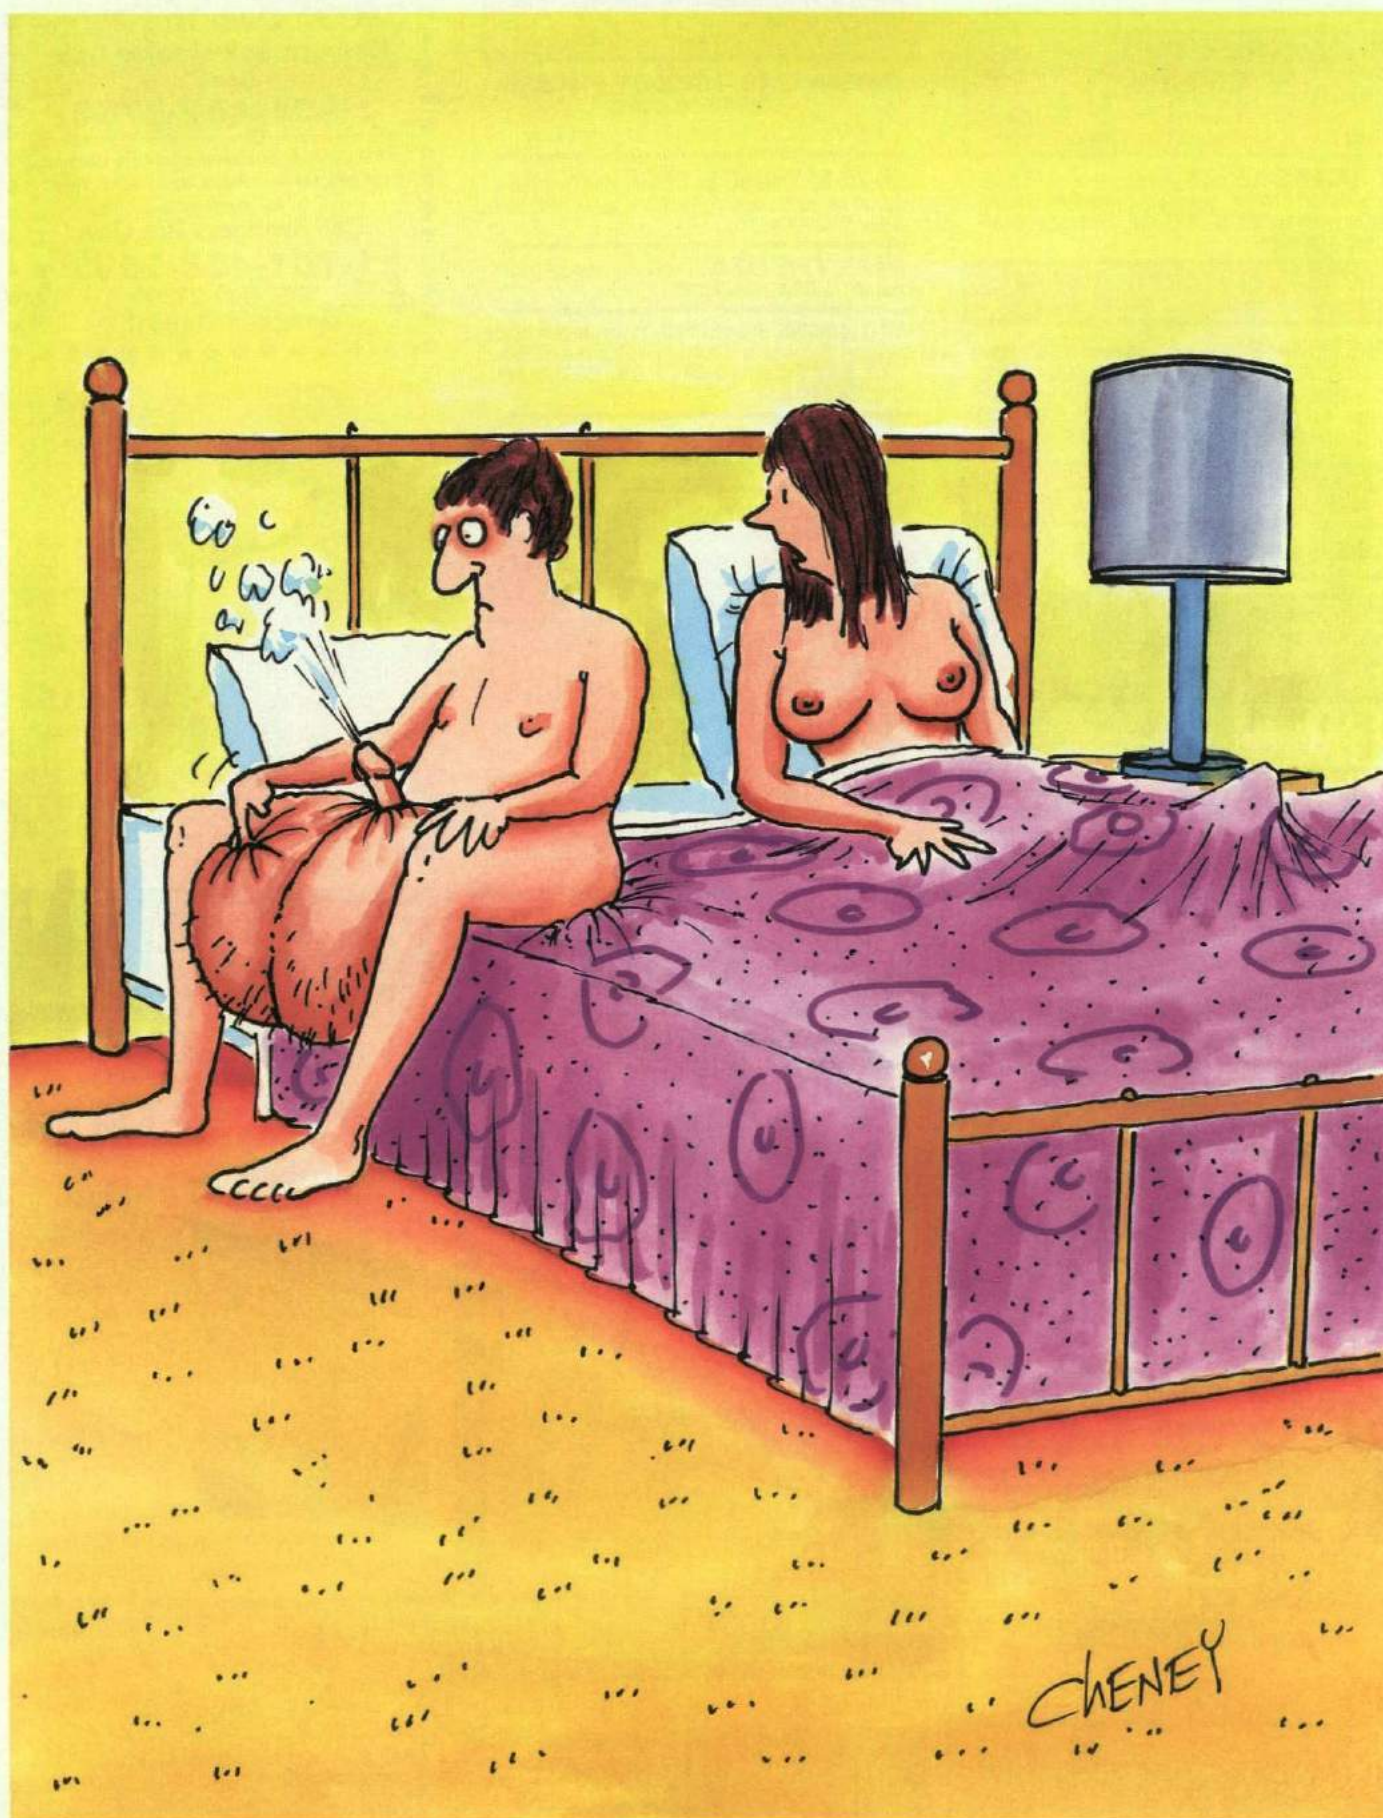

When the curtain went up, I walked out and announced that Shields and Yarnell were getting a divorce. I told the audience he caught her fucking the guys from Mummenschanz. The crowd roared. The guys in Shields and Yarnell's band cracked up. I was fired after the show. They told me that I was the comedy equivalent of the antichrist. I told them to go fuck themselves.

I love to make people laugh. If folks laugh, I did my job. When I go to the grocery store or pay my rent, they don't care if the money comes from dick jokes.

As I find myself in HUSTLER, I always wondered if the letters sent in were real or written by the staff. "My wife and I were thinking about a threesome. (Have you ever noticed that every month there's a letter about a guy who wants to watch his wife fuck another guy? Where are these people?) Anyway, last week we were involved in a three-car collision. My wife got horny, staring at the unconscious man lying on the hood of our car. We invited him over for dinner, smoked a couple of joints and brought up the topic of a threesome. He seemed quite receptive, and my wife unzipped his pants. His massive tool sprang out, knocking over a desk lamp. (I'd be lucky if I could knock over a bottle of nail polish.) We all got in the tub, and my wife began stroking his prick, which by now must have been at least 11" long. He shot his wad, and it hit the bathroom mirror, ricocheted out the window, careened off the hood of a car, and put someone's eye out on a motorcycle." If my mom read this, she'd say, "You know why that happened? Because he wasn't wearing a helmet."

If I made just one of you laugh, that's a shitty percentage!

A Public Announcement from Bristol-Foxx Video Prod.

90 MINUTE XXX-RATED HARDCORE!!

ONLY $3.95 EACH

(This is Not a Misprint)

AS PART OF A MOST UNUSUAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN, Bristol-Foxx Video Prod. is making available a limited number of its NEWEST, UNRELEASED XXX-rated hard-core erotica for only $3.95 each. They are being offered prior to theater distribution and are the LATEST, PRE-PRODUCTION, PRE-RELEASE video treatments of the hottest, most sexually explicit screen stories ever slated for the X-rated market—written & conceived for the biggest name stars in the tradition of Seka, John Holmes, and Marilyn Chambers.

THESE ARE NOT VIDEOTAPES SPLICED TOGETHER with a hodge-podge of incomplete bits & pieces. These are complete 90 minute stories from start to finish. Each is separate and individually packaged. WE CERTIFY THAT NO MATTER WHAT THE GOVERNMENT MAKES US DO TO CENSOR THEM PRIOR TO DISTRIBUTION, WHAT YOU GET WILL BE THE ORIGINAL UNEDITED SCRIPT AS IT WAS MEANT TO BE ENJOYED.

HOW CAN WE MAKE THIS OFFER AT THIS PRICE? It's simple—for 2 reasons. First, we're betting that the excitement generated by this campaign will pay off later—with huge box-office receipts and runaway video sales. Secondly, we're able to keep our processing costs down by requiring that you order either a set of 6 (at $3.95 each) for only $23.70, a set of 12 (at $3.95 each) for only $47.40, or all 20 selections (at $3.95 each) for only $79, which entitles you to a FABULOUS FREE GIFT: A $99.00 VIDEOTAPE SPECTACULAR, READ DETAILS!!

BUT THERE IS A CATCH—All we ask in return for making this adult entertainment available to you is that you fill out & return the questionnaire you'll be receiving with your order. (It needn't be signed.) Your responses to our questions will be a tremendous help to us in producing X-rated pictures the public will want. In fact, your response is the whole aim of this campaign. The more selections you review the more valuable your input becomes. Therefore, to encourage you to review as many selections as possible, we are going to offer an additional bonus.

FREE-FREE If you order all 20 selections, you will receive, ABSOLUTELY FREE, the "California Sex Spectacular," our collector's edition video-tape of the Best of Sex, featuring no less than 25 of your favorite stars in the wildest, hottest action you'll ever see. Sold nationally for $99, but yours FREE for ordering all 20.

FREE TICKETS—For each title you order, you'll receive FREE Souvenir Tickets for two to the local theater premiere.

CHOOSE FROM THESE SELECTIONS IN THIS APPLICATION/SURVEY FORM You MUST fill out & return this application form along with the entire ad to be eligible for this offer.

NEXT MONTH IN

HUSTLER

April issue on sale February 17, 1987

MIND-BLOWING WOMEN!

Next month we're proud to feature an all-star lineup of beautiful babes. First, a Parisian princess beckons you into her boudoir for an unforgettable night of pink pleasure. Then prepare to roll up your tongue when you get an eyeful of our unbelievably sensuous centerfold, the current Miss Nude Universe. Plus, two hot-blooded female musicians find the tempo of love a lot more exciting than piccolo practice. And a pair of pussyfooting swingers give ballroom dancing a whole new meaning.

SEX FOR SALE

Our April issue is devoted to all aspects of the world's oldest profession, starting with Irene Daval and Flo Kennedy's "Prostitution '87," an eye-opening roundup of the legal, social and political issues involved. You'll learn about the ins and outs of escort services in Maury Shekel's "Outcall," and discover the dos and don'ts of brothels in "Cathouse Etiquette" by Christian Shapiro. Finally, H. H. Morris provides some important tips on "How to Avoid Soliciting a Policewoman."

AND PLENTY MORE...

HUSTLER's outstanding regular features just keep getting better. Lovely amateur models from around the country get naked especially for you in Beaver Hunt; you'll be shocked to laughter by the ever-outrageous Bits and Pieces; the best of the current X-rated fare is analyzed in HUSTLER's Erotic Entertainment; and our loyal readers deliver again with a brand-new batch of steamy Hot Letters. April's HUSTLER is one for the collectors.
